Urge UN Action To End War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson restated today strong American support for United Nations efforts to end the India-Pakistan conflict.

In an address prepared for judges and lawyers from 100 countries attending the Washington World Conference on World Peace Through Law, Johnson said:

"Central to the hope of world peace through law is the United Nations. . . .I hope we can strengthen the United Nations, not simply as a forum for debate but as an arena for the solution of disputes. . . . And my country will fully support the efforts of the secretary-general to bring peace between the great nations of India and Pakistan."

This was the only reference in Johnson's prepared text to the latest Asian conflict. He made no mention of a suggestion Wednesday by President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan that the United States assume a larger role in trying to end fighting over Kashmir.

While the administration has not ruled out possible direct American efforts to promote a Pakistan-India settlement, the immediate response to Ayub's statement was to reaffirm support of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's mediation attempts -- and to go for more information about the private thinking reflected in Ayub's public statement.

Johnson's address, inspirational in tone, dealt only fleetingly with specific trouble spots. There was no direct mention of Viet Nam, for instance, although Johnson previously had invited U.N. efforts to promote a settlement there, too.

New York Times Struck By Guild

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the morning New York Times today, but contract talks were to resume at mid-morning. The city's afternoon newspapers went ahead with plans to publish.

Talks between the guild and the Times in a dispite centering on automation recessed at 7 a.m. and the guild immediately called a strike.

However, mediator Theodore W. Kheel announced the talks would resume at 10 a.m. and expressed optimism about the possibility of a settlement.

The Newspaper Publishers Association of New York, which represents all the city's major dailies except the afternoon Post, had said its members would cease publication if a guild strike forced the Times to shut down.

New Taxes On Horizon

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today if new and expanded state programs continue to grow as they have in the past seven years, new or increased taxes will be necessary.

"Fiscal restraint will be required by both the legislature and governor," the taxpayers' group said, "to avoid continued escalation of expenditures that will bring more taxes."

Its study showed, the survey said, that appropriations from the general revenue fund have grown from $203 million in the 1958-59 fiscal year to $410 million in the current year.

Three-fourths of the increase has gone for education, the survey said. It now amounts to more than a quarter billion, including $153 million for public school and $105 million for higher education.

Mental health programs also have received a big increase—125 per cent. That government service received $44 million this year, the survey said.

Steel Costs In Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — High administration sources still insist the steel contract negotiated in the shadow of the White House did not exceed government wage guidelines.

Some nongovernment estimates placed the cost higher than the guidelines would provide, leading to speculation of possible price increases.

But White House economists are sticking with their figures and the implication is that President Johnson will be closely watching for any steel price hikes he considers inflationary.

A government source said industry negotiators came to the White House hoping for Johnson's tacit approval of higher prices in exchange for boosting its wage offer to end the strike threat.

But Johnson didn't give it to them, this source said.

The industry finally raised its wage offer, agreement was reached Sept. 3 and the contract was signed on Labor Day.

Johnson called the settlement "noninflationary." It was not clear what he might do if the industry imposes general increases.

Here's how the government figures it:

White House guidelines suggest that industry can afford to raise wages 3.2 per cent a year without increasing prices to offset the added labor costs.

This is based on government figures estimating that productivity — the amount a worker produces -- increases by 3.2 per cent annually because of improved machinery and industrial efficiency.

Some estimates placed the cost of the steel settlement at about 3.5 per cent a year, but the difference is almost purely one of arithmetic.

It depends on whether the contract is figured as 35 months or 39 months long.

The contract runs from last Sept. 1 to Aug. 1, 1968 —a total of 35 months. But the over-all money package includes the 11.5- cent temporary wage increase negotiated previously in exchange for a four-month strike postponement from May 1 to Sept. 1.

The government now estimates the total cost of the White House settlement at 48 cents an hour for some 450,000 workers over the 39 months.

Previous wages and fringe benefits averaged $4.41 per hour by government estimate -- among the highest in the nation. The total will rise to $4.89 in the final year of the new contract.

Russia Tells Of Plans To Reach Moon

ATHENS, Greece AP -- Soviet Cosmonaut Alexei Leonov disclosed today that Russia plans to place a permanent manned satellite around the earth and try crew exchanges before landing a man on the moon.

Leonov gave no timetable for this program, which differed from American plans for the moon. The United States hopes to shoot its Apollo space ship to the moon before 1970. The Americans also plan a permanent manned satellite that would involve crew exchanges, but U.S. Apollo plans are not dependent on the permanent satellite program.

By holding up their moon shot until permanent stations are established, the Russians would be able to shoot a bigger ship to the moon by assembling it in space. The American three-man Apollo will be fired from earth.

Leonov, the first man to walk in space, indicated his own adventure was a rehearsal for an attempt at exchanging crews. He addressed a special plenary session of the International Astronautical Congress.

39 Killed In Plane Crash

QUANG NGAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thirty-nine persons, including an American, were killed today when an Air Viet Nam C47 commercial airliner crashed shortly after take-off from Quang Ngai airfield.

The dead American was Jerry Rose, described as a free lance writer who also was a civilian adviser to the South Vietnamese government. His wife lives in Hong Kong.

Among the dead was the South Vietnamese minister of rural pacification, Nguyen Tat Ung.

Gen. Nguyen Thi, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st army corps, said Ung and Rose were travelling together to installations in two provinces.

Hopes For UN Rising

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. AP -- Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said today his expectations for the coming U.N. General Assembly have been reinforced by U.S.-Soviet cooperation in trying to halt the war between India and Pakistan.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations said in an interview that the assembly's 20th session, opening next Tuesday, faces difficulties, but he declared: "I am optimistic."

He made these other major points.

The work of the 114-nation assembly will not be affected by the fighting in Viet Nam.

The United States continues to command majority support on major issues despite the flood of new Asian and African members into the world organization.

Settlement of disputes such as that between India and Pakistan takes time and patience. The American people must be patient if there are setbacks.

Red China is keeping itself out of the United Nations by its attitude of belligerency and there is no evidence of any change for the better.

Goldberg, September president of the Security Council, declined to speculate on what steps the 11-nation body would take to follow up the apparent failure of Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission to Rawalpindi and New Delhi.

The security Council will meet Friday to consider Thant's report.

Goldberg was asked about the reluctance of the United States to have the council debate the Viet Nam question.

"We have never excluded Security Council consideration of Viet Nam," he said. "Rather, we have consulted with our colleagues at the United Nations here, and it has been a rather general point of view that the nature of the Viet Nam problem is such that a public confrontation would not lead to progress towards a solution."

He said it was a misconception, anyway, to believe that the U.N. Charter provided no ways to resolve disputes except by council debates.

"The charter in its various provisions calls for conciliation, mediation, quiet diplomacy," he said, "and that is what the United Nations is engaged in."

Cardinal Ritter Pleads For Religious Freedom

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter, of St. Louis, Mo., today led eight prelates in vigorous defense of every man's right to worship as he pleases. He demanded that the Vatican Ecumenical Council adopt a document setting this forth as church policy.

Six other speakers on the third day of the final session of the council firmly opposed the statement on religious liberty.

Two American cardinals had pleaded Wednesday for approval of the document. Cardinal Ritter, who opened debate today, said: "If we do not approve this document, we will be running the risk of being numbered among the enemies of the Gospel."

Cardinal Ritter shares with prelates like Cardinals Francis Spellman of New York and Richard Cushing of Boston the view that the council must issue a declaration calling on civil governments to protect every man's right to believe as he wishes.

Conservative bishops from Italy and Spain replied in opposition that a religious liberty declaration would weaken the church.

Boys Cut Locks As Price Of High School Education

NEW YORK (AP) — Those puddles on the barber shop floor are the tears shed by America's -- in a nationwide survey by The Associated Press are:

Beatle haircuts, tight pants, short skirts, high heels, metal cleats, culottes, jeans, slacks, shorts, Elvis sideburns, Zulu hair ratting, Diamond Lil make-up, bare-midriffs, off-the-shoulder dresses, open back, sandals and bee-hive hairdos.

"We're advising a few of our boys we'd appreciate them getting their locks cut," said Principal Ralph Hoffman of Bayside High School in Queens. "Some of the boys have been coming in with too much knee.

Among the tabooes turned up youth forced to cut their locks as the price of education.

Symington Urges Cutback In Overseas Payout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington urged today a cutback in overseas grants and loans as part of a program to trim the nation's balance of payments deficit.

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, the Missouri Democrat also raised the possibility of U.S. troop reductions in Europe as a means of cutting the outflow of U.S. dollars.

He also urged that the Food for Peace program be revised to include payment in dollars for 20 to 25 per cent of shipments.

"If the United States could save $1.5 billion to $2 billion annually in its government overseas expenditures," he said, "that saving would go a long way towards balancing our international accounts."

Symington noted that the $1.5 billion spent each year to maintain U.S. military forces in Europe "is only partly offset by the some $600 million in military hardware purchased from us." And he raised—but did not answer—this question:

"Is the presence of five divisions of U.S. soldiers, plus a large air contingent, along with families—nearly a million people-still necessary in Europe?"

No Multilingual Cries Now From Children At Freedom

FREEDOM, N.H. (AP) — Inez Eagleshield has returned to her reservation home on the Dakota plains. Eva Wolgers is back in Stockholm, Sweden. Molly Luethi is roaming the Alpine fields around Goldern, Switzerland. Denise Bruton is back in Washington.

The rambling old farmhouse where they and 28 other children spent the summer is deserted.

When next summer arrives, the house again will ring with the multilingual cries of children at play. And Freedom's International Camp will begin its sixth year of striving for "peace through understanding."

"We try to get children of as many different nationalities as we can," said Jurg Papritz, a Swiss teacher who heads the

Johnson Tells Plan For Global Great Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today he will ask Congress next year to authorize a broad, long-range program to promote education in all parts of the world.

In an address prepared for a celebration of the birth 200 years ago of James Smithson, whose bequest led to the founding of the Smithsonian Institution, Johnson said:

"We mean to show that this nation's dream of a great society does not stop at the water's edge. It is not just an American dream. All are welcome to share in it. All are invited to contribute to it."

School At Bargain Rate

"The education program that we have is much better than we can afford."

That's what Lynn Twitty, superintendent of schools, told the School Board yesterday in its meeting.

"We are getting education at one of the highest levels in Southeast Missouri more economically than many of the smaller schools," he said.

Dr. A. D. Martin was absent.

Twitty reported to the board that most schools in Southeast Missouri are losing enrollment.

Sikeston had an increase of 182 students this school year. The total enrollment is 3,740.

Twitty reported that three offices in the old post office had been leased to Federal Housing Administration for $1,200 a year.

The state rented two rooms at the Airport school for $2,000.

Sikeston will apply for a year around program of "Head Start".

Twitty said that 260 children have applied. This year in the summer program there were 160 enrolled.

Rumor Changes In Soviet Rule

One persistent rumor, widely credited in Western diplomatic circles, was that Anastas Mikoyan will retire as president on his 70th birthday Nov. 25.

It was the earliest of the rumors to build up around the regime of Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev whch took over last Oct. 14 after the ouster of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Communist party Central Committee is scheduled to meet Sept. 27.

Among the rumors is one that Alexander Shelepin, a bright and ambitious leader, has been trying to engineer a takeover with the intention of seizing both the premiership and the party leadership.

Two Admit Tavern Theft

BENTON -- Darrell Gunter, 17, and Kenneth Kinder, 21, admitted, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis reports, that they broke into the Dutchtown Tavern July 17.

He said that they told him they broke open a Coke machine and had taken beer.

The two are being held in the county jail on two counts of burglary and larceny.

They are charged with breaking into Deason's Store at Blodgett July 27 and Bacher's Market in Chaffee July 30.

Dennis said they had also stolen gas from the Masters Produce trucks in Delta.

Award $60,000 Street Contract

CHARLESTON -- A contract for $60,000 was awarded to the W. S. McMullin Construction Co., Sikeston, for street paving in Charleston. The award was made at the council meeting Tuesday night.

The streets to be paved, according to City Manager Doug Hequembourg are, Lee Avenue, Grand Avenue, one block of State street, one block of Bondurant street, one block Ada street, Market street from Franklin to Locust, Court street from Second street to Third street. Construction will begin Sept. 20.

Other business consisted of taking bids for new police cars, but was tabled until all car dealers could be contacted.

A discussion was held on the possibility of building a new city hall, with Architect Swayne Byrd, present. He will outline the costs at a later meeting.

Snow Falls In Northwest

Wintry weather, with snow cold and blustery northerly winds, hit areas in Montana today and swept into the western Dakotas and Wyoming.

Temperatures dropped into the 20s across much of Montana and snow measured 18 inches on the 7,000-foot Big Mountain north of White Fish. The Weather Bureau issued freeze warnings and advisories to cattlemen to most of Northern Plains and the northern and central Rockies.

The late summer cold and snow damaged crops in much of the state where rains have delayed the grain harvest. Most of the major mountain passes in Montana were snowy and slick for the first time this season.

The mercury again Wednesday soared to above 100 degrees in parts of Texas and Oklahoma. Warm weather prevailed across the southern third of the nation.

In other parts of the nation, severe thunderstorms with heavy rain, hail and strong winds, lashed areas in Missouri and Erie County, Pa.

Vonda Kay Loses Title And Curly

Miss Van Dyke said Curly and the crown were in a bag which was missing when she arrived home in Phoenix. She had used the dummy in the talent competition to help win the Miss America title in 1964.

Hearnes Rejects Proposal By 62 Democrats In House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP --Gov. Warren E. Hearnes rejected quickly a proposal by 62 of the 122 Democrats in the Missouri House that he call a special session of the Legislature and give it free rein to devise another plan for distributing House seats.

The Democrats voted 62-24 for the proposal Wednesday at a caucus called by Speaker Thomas D. Graham, dogged foe of the U. S. Supreme Court's one-man, one vote edict on the composition of state legislatures.

Gov. Hearnes flew in from a visit to the Southern Governors' Conference at Sea Island, Ga., landed in a heavy rainstorm, checked over the new petition at his office and said:

"I didn't change my mind."

The governor favors a bipartisan commission of private citizens -- recommended by the political parties and appointed by the governor -- for dividing the state into House districts with equal population.

Rep. Mel Carnahan, Democratic floor leader from Phelps County, said this would set up "an unreasonable power of the governor over a legislative body."

In its six-month session in the first half of 1965, the Legislature adopted an apportionment scheme conceived by the House under the leadership of Graham and Carnahan; but it was rejected by the voters in a special election on Aug. 17.

Missouri is under a federal court order to redraw its legislative districts on a population basis.

Gov. Hearnes reiterated Wednesday night that he will not call a special session of the Legislature unless he is assured it will adopt the bipartisan commission plan he favors.

Dirksen, Smathers Challenge Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers challenged today Sen. J. W. Fulbright's contention that the Johnson administration bungled the Dominican crisis.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate Wednesday President Johnson was given "unsound advice" and that fear of a Communist takeover in Santo Domingo was based on misinformation and on "exaggerated estimates of Communist influence."

The Arkansas Democrat said that "the danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive United States intervention." He said, "In their panic lest the Dominican Republic become another Cuba, some of our officials seem to have forgotten that virtually all reform movements attract some Communist support."

Fulbright said Johnson, on the basis of the information and counsel he received, could hardly have acted other than he did. The senator said he had no objection to sending a modest contingent of U.S. troops to Santo Domingo to save American lives, but claimed there was "over action" by the administration in the dispatch of 22,000 men.

In a joint interview Dirksen and Smathers, secretary of the Democratic conference, disagreed with Fulbright's interpretation of the situation. Like Fulbright, they attended a White House meeting the night Johnson made his decision to send in troops.

Dirksen said he agreed with Johnson's decision then "and I agree with it now."

"A good many people had already been killed in Santo Domingo," Dirksen said. "The Communists were building up their strength. The country could have been torn apart. The President had to act."

Smathers said those at the White House meeting were told there were available reports on 58 trained Communists already on hand in Santo Domingo who could be expected to attempt to take over leadership in the revolt.

"The consensus at the meeting was that we couldn't afford to have another Cuba," he said. "Nobody disagreed to the plan to send troops."

Fulbright told the Senate "no American lives were lost in Santo Domingo until the Marines began exchanging fire with the rebels."

Of Communist involvement in the Dominican result, Fulbright said there is an important difference between Communist support and Communist control of a political movement.

"It is quite possible to compete with the Communists for influence in a reform movement rather than abandon it to them," he said.

Fulbright said that by its intervention the United States lent credence to the idea that it is the enemy of social revolution in Latin America "and that the only choice Latin Americans have is between communism and reaction."

Fulbright said he had not heard from Johnson after delivering his speech.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, asked for comment, said: "I have talked to a number of officials in government, career and otherwise, who simply do not believe the senator's conclusions are justified."

Bomb South Of Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) -- U. S. Air Force B52 bombers made their first raid into the Mekong River delta south of Saigon today, striking a suspected Red target 90 miles below the capital, U.S. military authorities said.

The raid over Vinh Binh Province was the 25th reported made by the jets of the Strategic Air Command against targets in Viet Nam.

The other raids have been carried out north of Saigon mostly in Zone D, long a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area a few miles north of the capital.

Roscoe Hall Bound Over In Portageville Car Theft

NEW MADRID -- the name of Roscoe "Buck" Hall was the most prominent on the docket of magistrate court this week.

Hall, who was captured in an attempted car theft at Portageville two weeks ago, was charged with grand larceny and burglary. He waived preliminary hearing before Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville and was bound over to circuit court for trial with bond set at $5,000 on each charge.

Nettie Mae Polk, Thomas Jackson, Thomas Armstrong, Evaster Cooper, Joseph Williams, Charles Brewer, and Ronald Warrent each were charged with possession of non-intoxicating beer this week. Fines for the seven, including court costs, totaled $395. Each was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail, then placed on probation.

Eddie Neal faced a charge of non-support. He was ordered to commence paying $25 per month support beginning Oct. 1.

Seven persons were fined for exceeding legal speed limits: Randall D. Harper, $20, Jack Hampton Miller, $25, Clarence Jackson, $100, Norman Harris, $18, Charles Edward Guinn, $23, Kendall L. Purser, $15, and Martha Louise Stanberry, $15.

Brooks, $25, and Clemus Z. Urhahan, $15; operating a motor vehicle with invalid lease -- Southern Petroleum, $35; no Missouri PSC sticker -- Atlas Van Lines, $110; and no trailer license--Southern Petroleum, $15.

Urge UN Action To End War

In an address prepared for judges and lawyers from 100 countries attending the Washington World Conference on World Peace Through Law, Johnson said:

New York Times Struck By Guild

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the morning New York Times today, but contract talks were to resume at mid-morning. The city's afternoon newspapers went ahead with plans to publish.

Talks between the guild and the Times in a dispite centering on automation recessed at 7 a.m. and the guild immediately called a strike.

However, mediator Theodore W. Kheel announced the talks would resume at 10 a.m. and expressed optimism about the possibility of a settlement.

The Newspaper Publishers Association of New York, which represents all the city's major dailies except the afternoon Post, had said its members would cease publication if a guild strike forced the Times to shut down.

New Taxes On Horizon

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today if new and expanded state programs continue to grow as they have in the past seven years, new or increased taxes will be necessary.

"Fiscal restraint will be required by both the legislature and governor," the taxpayers' group said, "to avoid continued escalation of expenditures that will bring more taxes."

Its study showed, the survey said, that appropriations from the general revenue fund have grown from $203 million in the 1958-59 fiscal year to $410 million in the current year.

Three-fourths of the increase has gone for education, the survey said. It now amounts to more than a quarter billion, including $153 million for public school and $105 million for higher education.

Steel Costs In Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — High administration sources still insist the steel contract negotiated in the shadow of the White House did not exceed government wage guidelines.

Some nongovernment estimates placed the cost higher than the guidelines would provide, leading to speculation of possible price increases.

But White House economists are sticking with their figures and the implication is that President Johnson will be closely watching for any steel price hikes he considers inflationary.

A government source said industry negotiators came to the White House hoping for Johnson's tacit approval of higher prices in exchange for boosting its wage offer to end the strike threat.

But Johnson didn't give it to them, this source said.

The industry finally raised its wage offer, agreement was reached Sept. 3 and the contract was signed on Labor Day.

Johnson called the settlement "noninflationary." It was not clear what he might do if the industry imposes general increases.

Here's how the government figures it:

White House guidelines suggest that industry can afford to raise wages 3.2 per cent a year without increasing prices to offset the added labor costs.

This is based on government figures estimating that productivity — the amount a worker produces -- increases by 3.2 per cent annually because of improved machinery and industrial efficiency.

Some estimates placed the cost of the steel settlement at about 3.5 per cent a year, but the difference is almost purely one of arithmetic.

It depends on whether the contract is figured as 35 months or 39 months long.

The contract runs from last Sept. 1 to Aug. 1, 1968 —a total of 35 months. But the over-all money package includes the 11.5-cent temporary wage increase negotiated previously in exchange for a four-month strike postponement from May 1 to Sept. 1.

The government now estimates the total cost of the White House settlement at 48 cents an hour for some 450,000 workers over the 39 months.

Previous wages and fringe benefits averaged $4.41 per hour by government estimate -- among the highest in the nation. The total will rise to $4.89 in the final year of the new contract.

Russia Tells Of Plans To Reach Moon

ATHENS, Greece AP -- Soviet Cosmonaut Alexei Leonov disclosed today that Russia plans to place a permanent manned satellite around the earth and try crew exchanges before landing a man on the moon.

Leonov gave no timetable for this program, which differed from American plans for the moon. The United States hopes to shoot its Apollo space ship to the moon before 1970. The Americans also plan a permanent manned satellite that would involve crew exchanges, but U.S. Apollo plans are not dependent on the permanent satellite program.

By holding up their moon shot until permanent stations are established, the Russians would be able to shoot a bigger ship to the moon by assembling it in space. The American three-man Apollo will be fired from earth.

Leonov, the first man to walk in space, indicated his own adventure was a rehearsal for an attempt at exchanging crews. He addressed a special plenary session of the International Astronautical Congress.

39 Killed In Plane Crash

QUANG NGAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thirty-nine persons, including an American, were killed today when an Air Viet Nam C47 commercial airliner crashed shortly after take-off from Quang Ngai airfield.

The dead American was Jerry Rose, described as a freelance writer who also was a civilian adviser to the South Vietnamese government. His wife lives in Hong Kong.

Among the dead was the South Vietnamese minister of rural pacification, Nguyen Tat Ung.

Gen. Nguyen Thi, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st army corps, said Ung and Rose were travelling together to installations in two provinces.

Hopes For UN Rising

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. AP -- Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said today his expectations for the coming U.N. General Assembly have been reinforced by U.S.-Soviet cooperation in trying to halt the war between India and Pakistan.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations said in an interview that the assembly's 20th session, opening next Tuesday, faces difficulties, but he declared: "I am optimistic."

He made these other major points.

The work of the 114-nation assembly will not be affected by the fighting in Viet Nam.

The United States continues to command majority support on major issues despite the flood of new Asian and African members into the world organization.

Settlement of disputes such as that between India and Pakistan takes time and patience. The American people must be patient if there are setbacks.

Red China is keeping itself out of the United Nations by its attitude of belligerency and there is no evidence of any change for the better.

Goldberg, September president of the Security Council, declined to speculate on what steps the 11-nation body would take to follow up the apparent failure of Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission to Rawalpindi and New Delhi.

The security Council will meet Friday to consider Thant's report.

Goldberg was asked about the reluctance of the United States to have the council debate the Viet Nam question.

"We have never excluded Security Council consideration of Viet Nam," he said. "Rather, we have consulted with our colleagues at the United Nations here, and it has been a rather general point of view that the nature of the Viet Nam problem is such that a public confrontation would not lead to progress towards a solution."

He said it was a misconception, anyway, to believe that the U.N. Charter provided no ways to resolve disputes except by council debates.

"The charter in its various provisions calls for conciliation, mediation, quiet diplomacy," he said, "and that is what the United Nations is engaged in."

Cardinal Ritter Pleads For Religious Freedom

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter, of St. Louis, Mo., today led eight prelates in vigorous defense of every man's right to worship as he pleases. He demanded that the Vatican Ecumenical Council adopt a document setting this forth as church policy.

Six other speakers on the third day of the final session of the council firmly opposed the statement on religious liberty.

Two American cardinals had pleaded Wednesday for approval of the document. Cardinal Ritter, who opened debate today, said: "If we do not approve this document, we will be running the risk of being numbered among the enemies of the Gospel."

Cardinal Ritter shares with prelates like Cardinals Francis Spellman of New York and Richard Cushing of Boston the view that the council must issue a declaration calling on civil governments to protect every man's right to believe as he wishes.

Conservative bishops from Italy and Spain replied in opposition that a religious liberty declaration would weaken the church.

Boys Cut Locks As Price Of High School Education

NEW YORK (AP) — Those puddles on the barber shop floor are the tears shed by America's youth forced to cut their locks as the price of education.

Boys' Beatle-like tresses grown long with the summer days fell into disfavor with the opening of schools across the country.

Bizarre makeup is being scrubbed from the faces of girls, and some school principals are carrying around rulers to see that hemlines don't show too much knee.

Among the tabooes turned up in a nationwide survey by The Associated Press are:

Beatle haircuts, tight pants, short skirts, high heels, metal cleats, culottes, jeans, slacks, shorts, Elvis sideburns, Zulu hair ratting, Diamond Lil makeup, bare-midriffs, off-the-shoulder dresses, open back, sandals and bee-hive hairdos.

"We're advising a few of our boys we'd appreciate them get-

Symington Urges Cutback In Overseas Payout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington urged today a cutback in overseas grants and loans as part of a program to trim the nation's balance of payments deficit.

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, the Missouri Democrat also raised the possibility of U.S. troop reductions in Europe as a means of cutting the outflow of U.S. dollars.

He also urged that the Food for Peace program be revised to include payment in dollars for 20 to 25 per cent of shipments.

"If the United States could save $1.5 billion to $2 billion annually in its government overseas expenditures," he said, "that saving would go a long way towards balancing our international accounts."

Symington noted that the $1.5 billion spent each year to maintain U.S. military forces in Europe "is only partly offset by the some $600 million in military hardware purchased from us." And he raised—but did not answer—this question:

"Is the presence of five divisions of U.S. soldiers, plus a large air contingent, along with families—nearly a million people-still necessary in Europe?"

No Multilingual Cries Now From Children At Freedom

FREEDOM, N.H. (AP) — Inez Eagleshield has returned to her reservation home on the Dakota plains. Eva Wolgers is back in Stockholm, Sweden. Molly Luethi is roaming the Alpine fields around Goldern, Switzerland. Denise Bruton is back in Washington.

The rambling old farmhouse where they and 28 other children spent the summer is deserted.

When next summer arrives, the house again will ring with the multilingual cries of children at play. And Freedom's International Camp will begin its sixth year of striving for "peace through understanding."

"We try to get children of as many different nationalities as we can," said Jurg Papritz, a Swiss teacher who heads the

Johnson Tells Plan For Global Great Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today he will ask Congress next year to authorize a broad, long-range program to promote education in all parts of the world.

In an address prepared for a celebration of the birth 200 years ago of James Smithson, whose bequest led to the founding of the Smithsonian Institution, Johnson said:

"We mean to show that this nation's dream of a great society does not stop at the water's edge. It is not just an American dream. All are welcome to share in it. All are invited to contribute to it."

School At Bargain Rate

"The education program that we have is much better than we can afford."

That's what Lynn Twitty, superintendent of schools, told the School Board yesterday in its meeting.

"We are getting education at one of the highest levels in Southeast Missouri more economically than many of the smaller schools," he said.

Dr. A. D. Martin was absent.

Twitty reported to the board that most schools in Southeast Missouri are losing enrollment.

Sikeston had an increase of 182 students this school year. The total enrollment is 3,740.

Twitty reported that three offices in the old post office had been leased to Federal Housing Administration for $1,200 a year.

The state rented two rooms at the Airport school for $2,000.

Sikeston will apply for a year around program of "Head Start".

Twitty said that 260 children have applied. This year in the summer program there were 160 enrolled.

Rumor Changes In Soviet Rule

One persistent rumor, widely credited in Western diplomatic circles, was that Anastas Mikoyan will retire as president on his 70th birthday Nov. 25.

It was the earliest of the rumors to build up around the regime of Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev whch took over last Oct. 14 after the ouster of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Communist party Central Committee is scheduled to meet Sept. 27.

Among the rumors is one that Alexander Shelepin, a bright and ambitious leader, has been trying to engineer a takeover with the intention of seizing both the premiership and the party leadership.

BENTON -- Darrell Gunter, 17, and Kenneth Kinder, 21, admitted, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis reports, that they broke into the Dutchtown Tavern July 17.

He said that they told him they broke open a Coke machine and had taken beer.

The two are being held in the county jail on two counts of burglary and larceny.

They are charged with breaking into Deason's Store at Blodgett July 27 and Bacher's Market in Chaffee July 30.

Dennis said they had also stolen gas from the Masters Produce trucks in Delta.

CHARLESTON -- A contract for $60,000 was awarded to the W. S. McMullin Construction Co., Sikeston, for street paving in Charleston. The award was made at the council meeting Tuesday night.

The streets to be paved, according to City Manager Doug Hequembourg are, Lee Avenue, Grand Avenue, one block of State street, one block of Bondurant street, one block Ada street, Market street from Franklin to Locust, Court street from Second street to Third street. Construction will begin Sept. 20.

A discussion was held on the possibility of building a new city hall, with Architect Swayne Byrd, present. He will outline the costs at a later meeting.

Snow Falls In Northwest

Wintry weather, with snow cold and blustery northerly winds, hit areas in Montana today and swept into the western Dakotas and Wyoming.

Temperatures dropped into the 20s across much of Montana and snow measured 18 inches on the 7,000-foot Big Mountain north of White Fish. The Weather Bureau issued freeze warnings and advisories to cattlemen to most of Northern Plains and the northern and central Rockies.

The late summer cold and snow damaged crops in much of the state where rains have delayed the grain harvest. Most of the major mountain passes in Montana were snowy and slick for the first time this season.

The mercury again Wednesday soared to above 100 degrees in parts of Texas and Oklahoma. Warm weather prevailed across the southern third of the nation.

In other parts of the nation, severe thunderstorms with heavy rain, hail and strong winds, lashed areas in Missouri and Erie County, Pa.

Vonda Kay Loses Title And Curly

Miss Van Dyke said Curly and the crown were in a bag which was missing when she arrived home in Phoenix. She had used the dummy in the talent competition to help win the Miss America title in 1964.

Hearnes Rejects Proposal By 62 Democrats In House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. AP --Gov. Warren E. Hearnes rejected quickly a proposal by 62 of the 122 Democrats in the Missouri House that he call a special session of the Legislature and give it free rein to devise another plan for distributing House seats.

The Democrats voted 62-24 for the proposal Wednesday at a caucus called by Speaker Thomas D. Graham, dogged foe of the U. S. Supreme Court's one-man, one vote edict on the composition of state legislatures.

Gov. Hearnes flew in from a visit to the Southern Governors' Conference at Sea Island, Ga., landed in a heavy rainstorm, checked over the new petition at his office and said:

"I didn't change my mind."

The governor favors a bipartisan commission of private citizens -- recommended by the political parties and appointed by the governor -- for dividing the state into House districts with equal population.

Rep. Mel Carnahan, Democratic floor leader from Phelps County, said this would set up "an unreasonable power of the governor over a legislative body."

In its six-month session in the first half of 1965, the Legislature adopted an apportionment scheme conceived by the House under the leadership of Graham and Carnahan; but it was rejected by the voters in a special election on Aug. 17.

Missouri is under a federal court order to redraw its legislative districts on a population basis.

Gov. Hearnes reiterated Wednesday night that he will not call a special session of the Legislature unless he is assured it will adopt the bipartisan commission plan he favors.

Roscoe Hall Bound Over In Portageville Car Theft

NEW MADRID -- the name of Roscoe "Buck" Hall was the most prominent on the docket of magistrate court this week.

Eddie Neal faced a charge of non-support. He was ordered to commence paying $25 per month support beginning Oct. 1.

Seven persons were fined for exceeding legal speed limits: Randall D. Harper, $20, Jack Hampton Miller, $25, Clarence Jackson, $100, Norman Harris, $18, Charles Edward Guinn, $23, Kendall L. Purser, $15, and Martha Louise Stanberry, $15.

Brooks, $25, and Clemus Z. Urhahan, $15; operating a motor vehicle with invalid lease -- Southern Petroleum, $35; no Missouri PSC sticker -- Atlas Van Lines, $110; and no trailer license--Southern Petroleum, $15.

Dirksen, Smathers Challenge Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers challenged today Sen. J. W. Fulbright's contention that the Johnson administration bungled the Dominican crisis.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the Senate Wednesday President Johnson was given "unsound advice" and that fear of a Communist takeover in Santo Domingo was based on misinformation and on "exaggerated estimates of Communist influence."

The Arkansas Democrat said that "the danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive United States intervention." He said, "In their panic lest the Dominican Republic become another Cuba, some of our officials seem to have forgotten that virtually all reform movements attract some Communist support."

Fulbright said Johnson, on the basis of the information and counsel he received, could hardly have acted other than he did. The senator said he had no objection to sending a modest contingent of U.S. troops to Santo Domingo to save American lives, but claimed there was "over action" by the administration in the dispatch of 22,000 men.

In a joint interview Dirksen and Smathers, secretary of the Democratic conference, disagreed with Fulbright's interpretation of the situation. Like Fulbright, they attended a White House meeting the night Johnson made his decision to send in troops.

Dirksen said he agreed with Johnson's decision then "and I agree with it now."

"A good many people had already been killed in Santo Domingo," Dirksen said. "The Communists were building up their strength. The country could have been torn apart. The President had to act."

Smathers said those at the White House meeting were told there were available reports on 58 trained Communists already on hand in Santo Domingo who could be expected to attempt to take over leadership in the revolt.

"The consensus at the meeting was that we couldn't afford to have another Cuba," he said. "Nobody disagreed to the plan to send troops."

Fulbright told the Senate "no American lives were lost in Santo Domingo until the Marines began exchanging fire with the rebels."

Of Communist involvement in the Dominican result, Fulbright said there is an important difference between Communist support and Communist control of a political movement.

"It is quite possible to compete with the Communists for influence in a reform movement rather than abandon it to them," he said.

Fulbright said that by its intervention the United States lent credence to the idea that it is the enemy of social revolution in Latin America "and that the only choice Latin Americans have is between communism and reaction."

Fulbright said he had not heard from Johnson after delivering his speech.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, asked for comment, said: "I have talked to a number of officials in government, career and otherwise, who simply do not believe the senator's conclusions are justified."

Bomb South Of Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) -- U. S. Air Force B52 bombers made their first raid into the Mekong River delta south of Saigon today, striking a suspected Red target 90 miles below the capital, U. S. military authorities said.

The raid over Vinh Binh Province was the 25th reported made by the jets of the Strategic Air Command against targets in Viet Nam.

The other raids have been carried out north of Saigon mostly in Zone D, long a Communist stronghold, and in the Ben Cat area a few miles north of the capital.

LIFE MAY NOT BE MUCH FUN IN 1987

About a year ago Congress modestly eased the burden of high wartime income taxes. More recently Congress also eased the burden of excise taxes. But Congress materially increased the burden of Social Security taxes and this will be a permanent burden. The tax burden of Social Security will become a little heavier with each passing year. There will be no relief for anyone. The taxpayer will be obligated to pay. Poverty alone will not insure relief from Medicare and Social Security taxes.

Death, and death alone, will free the taxpayer. As in all programs of this kind, the percentage is with the house and not with the individual player.

The government is not bound in the same manner as the individual taxpayer. It need not return to the beneficiary, ultimately, a dollar having the same value as the dollar that was collected. Indeed, the program is partially based on the philosophy of a depreciating dollar.

This is one of the reasons why the advocates of Medicare and Social Security contend that the kind of security that everyone seeks no longer can be guaranteed by the ownership of property or the possession of money and other securities.

The substitute for the ownership of property and possessions as a bulwark to provide security is to be instead the promise of unborn generations to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes.

Suppose these now unborn generations, when confronted with the burden of paying taxes to support us in our declining years decide that they do not wish to assume the burden. Will any "leader" be strong enough to force them to pay whether they want to or not?

Congressman Miller said: "I maintain that the cause of inflation is traceable to the Capitol of the United States--in Congress. It is not in the White House, I don't care who the President of the U.S. is. He does not have the power to legislate appropriations, or to legislate revenue measures. Members of Congress have that responsibility. Down through the years, I regret that a majority of the members of Congress have persisted in spending many billions of dollars more than the amount of revenue taken in by the government.

"During the past four years, 1961 through 1964, the government went approximately $28 billion deeper into debt. In the present state of monetary and fiscal policy, every time the government goes $1 billion deeper into debt, we can count on having a billion dollars of inflation.

"I have not said the Social Security Fund is bankrupt. I merely say that the Social Security Trust Fund is not in very good shape, because it is unfunded to the extent of about $32(billion. The way it will be made up is by contributions from future generations. The younger workers now coming into the labor force, probably 20 or 21 years old, will be paying along with the employer, $167 for every $100 in Social Security that the younger worker will get when he retires 40 to 45 years later.

"If these young workers went to a private insurance company and paid for a similar annuity, it would probably cost them about $35 a year."

Beginning in 1966 the annual cost of the Social Security-Medicare package to the employe and the employer combined will be $554.40. This cost will increase in steps until it reaches a total of $745.80 by 1987. It could be higher if Congress is forced to increase the rates because of creeping inflation.

Life is not going to be very much fun for the wage earner in 1987 unless there is a change in the attitude of our government--and the voters who want something for nothing which is impossible.

However, popularly the term "far right" is applied to those self-styled super patriots who'll beat you over the head with the flag if you don't agree that the communists are winning.

The super-dupers of the far right are people like Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, Ill., who made headlines writing "A Choice--Not an Echo"--a book with a better title than text.

In recent speeches she is quoted as saying that our country is being unilaterally disarmed by Secretary McNamara. Further that the unilateral disarmament of the United States is an important communist objective today.

John Stormer of Florissant is another super-duper flag waver. He wrote "None Dare Call It Treason." Another good title, another bad book.

He is being quoted recently as saying that Viet Nam may be "window dressing" for a high level meeting between Moscow and Washington officials at which the Americans will hand over Southeast Asia to the Soviet Union.

There are others, of course.

They all play the same tune. And get off key at the same place.

The tune is that the enemies are winning the world and that our country is asleep, doing nothing, misled, blind, inept and losing.

The place where the super-dupers of the far right get off key is here:

If you don't agree that there are commies under every bed and winning every political and military contest in the world, you are a fool, a comsymp or a communist.

And that's bunk--pure bunk.

What are the facts of life?

While our country must always have critics, the critics aren't always right. Thus, the far right is as necessary to a healthy democracy as its equivalent on the left.

We are not talking about the real far left--the communists--nor are we talking about the real far right -- the fascists (Nazi-type). Our country would be better off without either.

But getting back to our super-patriots and their continuing attacks on the men and women in our government--men and women of both parties:

We have more modern weapons in all branches than any other country in the world.

We have better trained, higher skilled soldiers, sailors and airmen than ever before except during World War II.

We have more money at work in defense research than ever before in our history--more money really than we are able to man.

Of course the communists would like to disarm the United States.

Disarming us would mean they could dominate the world because. . .there is no other force stopping them.

And we are stopping the communists.

We are stopping the Soviet on all fronts. Repeat, on all fronts.

We are stopping the Red Chinese everywhere.

We are in hot war in Viet Nam stopping the Viet Cong--the North Viet Nam Reds. They are related to but not the same as the Chicoms.

We are stopping the Reds throughout South America.

Nationwide publicity being given to the alleged scandal, in the operation of the personal property and inventory tax in California, is not focused on the real issue. The most scandalous aspect of the entire situation is the low level of economic understanding among may politicians in those states, which levy an inventory tax.

This is the opinion of C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business. It is based on the year long survey of independent business proprietors in all 50 states, conducted in 1964 by the organization. This survey, with more than 70,000 respondents, revealed that repeal of inventory taxes is supported by 73.4% of the businesses in California, to as high as 89% in New Jersey. The average oppostion, to such an impost in those states levying such a tax, is approximately 80%.

If there is proved to have been misconduct on the part of any public official, such as taking bribes to reduce assessments, such matters cannot be condoned. On the other hand, the public should better understand laws which tend not only to breed corruption, but also gouge the consuming public in hidden costs created by wholly fallacious taxing policies.

While there are reports that this situation is being investigated in many states collecting inventory taxes, and although there are variances in the manner of assessing the tax, the example of California where the furor started is quite typical.

Under the law, the county assessors place a valuation on all merchandise in stock in any wholesale, retail, service or manufacturing establishment, on the first Monday in March. This results in business coming practically to a standstill, the first quarter of the year, as every attempt is made to run down inventories as low as possible.

The assessment is made on the merchandise in stock whether it is owned outright, is on consignment, or is carried entirely by financing. The majority of inventories today are heavily financed and, as such, represent a liability rather than an asset. Thus, the tax is made on what a firm owes rather than what it owns.

That is a great variance in the method of assessing permitted. In the City and County of San Francisco, it is claimed that the assessors place a value on inventories at 50% of the invoice price from the supplier. On a $12 tax rate, per $100 of assessed valuation, this tax automatically increases the cost of the goods by 6%.

Thus, for example, an auto or piano invoiced to a dealer or wholesaler at $4,000, is assessed at $2,000, which on a $12 tax rate means an extra $240 must be charged the customer, while in a neighboring county only an additional $120 must be charged, but if the item is kept in a warehouse in another state where there are no inventory taxes the consumer does not pay any premium.

To aggravate the situation is the fact that many businesses, especially in the hardware and spare parts business, must carry slow moving items in stock in order to properly service customers. Thus, an item of this nature if carried in stock for four years, will be taxed before it moves to a customer four different years, quadrupling the costs against the item created by the tax.

In many areas, of which San Francisco is a leading example, many firms have moved out to avoid this type of taxation, with the result that Federal funds are then sought for urban renewal and for war on poverty to take up the slack created by the abandonment of the city.

If it is proved, and at this time there is a big if, there can be no question of public misconduct, and while rationalization of wrong doing cannot be acceptable, still human nature being what it is, it can be seen how such misconduct was rationalized. In other words, officials could in their own minds justify to some extent accepting money to favor certain firms on assessments with the knowledge that if they were taxed at the full assessment, they would move elsewhere to create a ghost community in the area.

In the 1965 session of the California legislature, the situation created by the inventory tax was recognized by those legislators with realistic economic knowledge pushing for removal of the tax.

However, other forces tied in this reform as bait in part of a totally unacceptable new taxing package proposal. The leadership was either too weak, or lacking in understanding, to isolate this issue with the result that no remedy was reached. The Association of County Assessors registered opposition on the basis that taxing goods in warehouses and stores is the easiest tax to levy.

This whole episode, revolving around exacting tribute on goods in transit, between the producer and the ultimate consumer does illustrate the flagrant disregard in many political circles toward either the best interests of business, employment, and the consumer.

In fact, there is no more concern displayed over the expansion of commerce and the welfare of the consumer shown, than was displayed when the Bedouins stopped the camel caravans of ancient times to exact tribute before letting the merchandise continue on the route, or by the robber barons along the Rhine who exacted tribute from shipments traveling down that waterway of ancient commerce.

TRACK DOWN FURY IN HURRICANES

The United States Navy not only talks about the weather, it tries to do something about it, too. If Uncle Sam's sailors are successful, the damage done by hurricanes will be greatly reduced and the tragic turmoil produced by these tropical killers will cease to take countless lives and maul property annually.

The name of the operation is Project Stormfury and the Navy is working with the Weather Bureau to see if seeding clouds can stop storms in their tracks before they play havoc with helpless householders.

Started in 1961, Project Stormfury will be revived between July 28 and October 1 when planes take to the air to seed storm coulds in the western Atlantic and eastern Caribbean. Up to 17 Navy, Air Force and Weather Bureau aircraft will take part in the project and try to record what happens when storms are seeded.

The basic technique involves seeding clouds surrounding the eye, or center of storms in order to release latent heat. Scientists hope this will trigger a chain reaction leading to the modifying of the destructive killer storms. Cumulus clouds will also be seeded with silver iodide canisters and project sicentists will experiment with hurricane rainbands for the first time. The rainbands are narrow, curved strips of heavy precipitation some distance from the eye of the hurricane.

Hurricane Beulah, which roared off the coast of Puerto Rico in 1963, gave Stormfury experts a chance to meet a killer face to face. Soon after seeding, the central pressure in the eye of the hurricane rose and the area of maximum winds moved away from the storm center, greatly reducing the striking power of the tropical tempest. The seeding operations might have caused the desired results, but scientists admit that natural oscillations within the hurricane, of which little is known, could have accounted for the changes. The experts need to know for sure.

So, with another hurricane season approaching, Navy and Weather Bureau storm fighters have their eyes on the sky. They want nothing more than to take on one of nature's most deadly weapons. What they learn could go a long way toward hastening the day when the hurricane season is no more.

It's expensive, dangerous work, but there's no doubt that it's worth the effort. The results might save your life.

H. L. Hunt Says

UNITY FOR FREEDOM

At the present moment the cause of individual liberty, constructive patriotism and sound moral value in America has reached an unusually low ebb.

History is full of the ebb and flow of great causes; the one thing we can be sure of is that movement and change will continue. We will not remain where we are. We may go up or down, or in a different direction, but we will not stand still.

If the cause of liberty, right and country is to move forward again, if the tide is to turn in freedom's favor in our time, we must attain a fundamental unity in support of it. This is especially difficult for friends of freedom precisely because they are proud to be distinct and self-reliant, independent individuals, often uncomfortable working in harness with others. In this, as well as every other respect they are the exact opposite of collectivists.

For that reason, it will continue to be necessary for a great variety of groups and individuals to undertake initiatives for freedom. But we must have at least some unity. That minimal unity must include a great reluctance on the part of any advocate of freedom to criticize any other unless he is convinced that the object of his criticism is doing much more harm than good.

This is just as true in the field of ideas as anywhere else. Many different ideas join together to form the freedom stream. For practical purposes, our concern should be with their end result rather than their source, so long as the end result is to swell the freedom tide.

NEW YORK AP -- Everybody talks about cocktail parties, but nobody ever does anything about them--except to throw another one.

One of the ordeals of autumn is that it signals the start of a new cocktail party season with all its attendant perils to millions of American alimentary canals which have rested up during the summer.

Originally, the cocktail party was invented as a pleasant way of paying off small social debts en masse. But it outgrew that idea long ago. Now it is just another way to get even with folks.

One of the rituals about throwing a cocktail party is that there must be a reason for it, preferably a cute reason. Such as:

"We'uns would like you'uns to attend a little shindig in our hut next Friday honoring our dog Roscoe, who has just graduated at the head of his class in obedience school. Hours: 5 to 7. Bring your own weapons."

"Oh, no, not another cocktail party!" moans each guest. But each guest shows up on the dot at the appointed hour. Everyone who attends cocktail parties says he hates them -- but he wouldn't miss one for the world.

The more thoughtful guests bring gaily wrapped gifts for Roscoe, who lies in a corner snarling at all who comes near. Roscoe has been to cocktail parties before. To him they are part of a dog's life he would rather dispense with.

At the start of the evening the guests, most of whom never heard of each other before and silently hope they never will again, are hard put even to exchange bare commonplaces of greeting. They stand there, shifting from one foot to the other, and pretending they are having a whale of a time munching on gummy fishballs and other gluey substances.

No one knows for sure who first started the custom of serving that kind of food at cocktail parties. No one is willing to accept the blame. Roscoe himself would starve rather than touch it.

After a couple of hours, however, the different kinds of bubbly in the glasses have evaporated the inhuman chill. The guests who had nothing to say before now can't shut up. Holding on to each others' coat lapels they are engaged in eyeball - to - eyeball shouting matches.

No one hears what another says. Why should he? After all, he has a few things he wants to get off his chest himself. Undoubtedly thousands of brilliant bon mots have been uttered at cocktail parties. But who remembers ever hearing one?

By 9 p.m. the host's living room, which looked so lovely only four hours before, now reeks of smoke like an opium den. It couldn't be more disarranged if Geronimo had held a reunion of his tribe there.

At midnight wives are hauling reluctant husbands out the door and saying, "Give me the keys --I'll have to drive." Roscoe lies in wait, trying to give each a revengeful nip as they pass.

The party is supposed to last from 5 to 7--and it does. The last guest is found sleeping under a sofa at 7 the next morning, and sent tottering on his way.

All who attended wake up with baggy eyes and stomachs feeling as if they had been beaten with rubber truncheons. "Never again," they groan feebly. But when next time comes, they're ready to go again.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Ominous reports have reached the United States that the Red Chinese are preparing to infiltrate 50,000 Vietnamese - speaking Guerrillas into South Viet Nam as a "first step" towards participation in the war.

The recruiting drive is centered in Kwangsi Province across the border from Viet Nam. The people of Southern Kwangsi are familiar enough with the Vietnamese language and customs that a Guerrilla force should be able to cross into Viet Nam without it appearing to be a Chinese invasion.

Significantly, these preparations are tied to the defection of Li Tsung-Jen, a former Nationalist Vice President, who recently slipped behind the Bamboo Curtain after 16 years in the United States. This column pointed out after his defection that Li was a hero to the people of Kwangsi Province.

Evidence that the Chinese Communists are now using Li to help form a Guerrilla force is contained in a confidential report to the army from John Hopkins University's operations research office. This office does much of the army's intelligence analysis.

Speaking of the Chinese preparation to send Guerrillas to Viet Nam, the report declares, "a total of 50,000 Vietnamese - speaking Kwangsi people will be conscripted as a first step . . .

"According to intelligence reports," the report continues, "Li Tsung-Jen, together with Chinese military leaders Lin Piao and Lo Jui-Ching . . . . called a high-level conference in Kwangsi Province to launch a movement for the Yao Minority group to participate in the war.

"50,000 volunteers of both sexes who can speak Vietnamese will be organized into military service. The Reserve Army will also be composed of 50,000.

"Within a short time, they will be dispatched from Hanoi to the battlefield in South Viet Nam to assist the Viet Cong Guerrillas in resisting American troops and the troops of South Viet Nam."

KING OF CORN

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, whose sagging face, woolly hair and organ voice are beloved in the Senate, has been called the "King of Corn" and the "Old Windbag."

Some researchers have found it appropriate that he once worked for the Corn Products Refining Company and served briefly as a World War I Balloonist.

But after the hot air has lifted, probably no past Minority Leader has wangled more patronage and won more concessions from the party in power.

A case in point is his attempt to upset the Supreme Court Ruling that State Legislatures must be apportioned according to population. When the Senate narrowly defeated his Constitutional Amendment, he came back with a slightly modified version.

He expected Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., to cast the deciding vote for it in the Judiciary Committee. When Dodd voted against it, old Ev cried out in dismay: "For chrissake, Tommy! You said you'd give me your vote!"

Dodd replied quietly that Ev must have misunderstood, but the "Wizzard of Ooze," as Dirksen is also called, isn't easily rebuffed. Muttering darkly that he wouldn't be pushed around, he retaliated by throwing a legislative block in the way of the Immigration Bill.

Around the White House, old Ev is sometimes known by still another nickname: "Irksome Dirksem." To avoid a collision, President Johnson did as past Presidents have frequently done; he saw to it that Dirksen got what he wanted.

SECRET PHONE CALL

This was arranged through Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who telephoned Dodd from the White House while the President hovered in the background. Mansfield urged Dodd to go along with Dirksen on Reapportionment in return for the Republican Leader's cooperation in springing the Immigration Bill.

This is merely the last in a series of Democratic efforts to keep Dirksen happy.

The late President Kennedy, for example, ignored the recommendations of Illinois Democrats by appointing Dirksen's nominee, Judge Bernard Decker, to the federal bench. This so embarrassed Dirksen's Democratic challenger, Sid Yates, that the White House tried to keep the appointment quiet until after the 1962 election. But the word leaked out that the White House thought more of Dirksen than of Yates.

To compound Yates' embarrassment, Mansfield as the Senate Democratic spokesman lavishly praised Dirksen on the eve of the 1962 election.

PRAISE FROM MANSFIELD

"Everett," said Mansfield, turning to the Republican Leader, "I am honored and grateful that you sit across the aisle from me. You are a tower of strength as a collaborator in the leadership of this body. For 30 years you have served your party faithfully and brilliantly. But for 30 years, you have served our country more."

The statement, circulated all over Illinois, helped to re-elect Dirksen.

Not long afterward, Kennedy appointed Dirksen's hand-picked candidate, the late Harold Woodward, to the Federal Power Commission, thus giving him a voice in making billion-dollar decisions affecting the oil and gas industry. This was of more than casual interest to Dirksen, whose Peoria, Ill., law firm represents big oil and gas clients.

Earlier this year, Dirksen persuaded President Johnson to name still another of his friends, Carl Bagge, to the Federal Power Commission. This appointment, too, was part of the Democratic Placate-Dirksen Program.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Leaders Get LBJ's Pledge of Support In "Toughest Fight We Ever Had".

Washington, D. C.: -- Shortly before noon last Friday (Sept. 10) two rather portly men entered President Johnson's office. That moment marked the beginning of the final round of one of the toughest -- and costliest -- fights labor ever has made.

The visitors, America's Mr. Labor, George Meany, and Andy Biemiller, labor's perpetually-in-motion lobbyist, came not too long after they had learned that Republican Senate Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen had been quoting the late T.S. Eliot.

To paraphrase Sen. Dirksen paraphrasing T. S. Eliot, the message that came through sounded like: "That is the way the Congressional session ends, not with a bang but a whimper."

The point is who will do the whimpering?

The gentlemen from Illinois believes it ought to be the liberal-labor coalition in the Senate. He is determined to stop the repeal of the now classic item known as "Fourteen B," even if it means staying in session until New Year's Eve. (Fourteen B is the Taft-Hartley clause which gives states the right to ban labor contracts which make union membership a pre-requisite for keeping a job.)

This was discussed in the President's sanctum by Messrs. Johnson, Meany and Biemiller. The President said quietly he had given them his word and he would keep his commitment. Labor has his support in this fight. He would back it.

Just how the President will keep his pledge will be reported by Mr. Meany to labor's 29 - member high command, technically known as the AFL-CIO Executive Council. Already these hardy infighters are gathering in New York City for their pre-convention session.

It will undoubtedly be said, when the formal sessions open behind the traditionally-closed hotel room doors, that the President will battle with them to win repeal before the session ends.

The labor leaders have enough Senate votes to vote it through once it gets to a roll call. But their Senate friends total somewhere in the fifties -- not the 67 votes needed to smash a filibuster. So a good deal of the high command session will be spent on tactics to win over, or pressure over, some of the Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The labor leaders are mighty intense about repeal. To most of the high council, it seems they have been in this battle most of their lives. They've been at it since 1947. Thus a majority of the nation's working people -- especially those in their twenties, thirties and early forties really are unaware of the basic issue here.

It is not just the fact that 19 states have passed anti-union shop laws, which will be repealed if labor wins in the next 90 days.

Actually Fourteen B has become a costly test of labor's ultimate prestige and a final political breakthrough. It is in effect the last of the laws which harnessed labor to the "old days," when overalls were more the symbol than a white collar.

It has cost millions of dollars to fight over the past two decades. It has kept and keeps millions of dollars from the labor war chests on the political and industrial front.

From Joe Beirne, the Communication Workers' leader, who, though Irish, has a British type of characteristic understatement, comes word that the total battle cost has topped $20 million. Some $5 million of this money has come from the central AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington.

A rough estimate from the national office is that another $30 million dollars has been lost in dues in the 19 (once 20) states which ban the union shop contracts.

Thus, vast sums have been diverted from organization drives, political campaigns and other labor activities. It also has been tougher to picket, to unionize and to operate in these states which form a zig-zagging frontier, which the labor men really have not been able to crack. So they want repeal now.

They know if they fail this time they won't get it through next year --- when most of Congress rushes home for their re-election drives. Few Congressmen want to dash into these campaigns with a repeal vote just a few weeks behind them. Now there would be a year's hiatus. People would forget. Opponents would not be able to shout that the incumbent opened the sluice gate for the union armies.

So Mr. Labor went to see the President. And a few days later a national headquarters spokesman said:

"We are going to win this fight. We have enough votes to defeat the opposition on a repeal vote. But not enough to close debate. So the only way now is to outlast them in the Senate. This probably will be the toughest fight we've ever had. But they don't go home until they pass this."

We wonder sometime what is the matter with the editors of small daily and weekly newspapers.

They sit supinely on their behinds and never write a word about what the Congress is going to do to the average working man with the repeal of 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Don't they realize what can happen in their own communities.

They should let their readers know the danger in this repeal and what it means to turn the entire labor force of this country over to some union labor leaders.

LIFE MAY NOT BE MUCH FUN IN 1987

About a year ago Congress modestly eased the burden of high wartime income taxes. More recently Congress also eased the burden of excise taxes. But Congress materially increased the burden of Social Security taxes and this will be a permanent burden. The tax burden of Social Security will become a little heavier with each passing year. There will be no relief for anyone. The taxpayer will be obligated to pay. Poverty alone will not insure relief from Medicare and Social Security taxes.

Death, and death alone, will free the taxpayer. As in all programs of this kind, the percentage is with the house and not with the individual player.

The government is not bound in the same manner as the individual taxpayer. It need not return to the beneficiary, ultimately, a dollar having the same value as the dollar that was collected. Indeed, the program is partially based on the philosophy of a depreciating dollar.

This is one of the reasons why the advocates of Medicare and Social Security contend that the kind of security that everyone seeks no longer can be guaranteed by the ownership of property or the possession of money and other securities.

The substitute for the ownership of property and possessions as a bulwark to provide security is to be instead the promise of unborn generations to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes.

Suppose these now unborn generations, when confronted with the burden of paying taxes to support us in our declining years decide that they do not wish to assume the burden. Will any "leader" be strong enough to force them to pay whether they want to or not?

Congressman Miller said: "I maintain that the cause of inflation is traceable to the Capitol of the United States--in Congress. It is not in the White House, I don't care who the President of the U.S. is. He does not have the power to legislate appropriations, or to legislate revenue measures. Members of Congress have that responsibility. Down through the years, I regret that a majority of the members of Congress have persisted in spending many billions of dollars more than the amount of revenue taken in by the government.

"During the past four years, 1961 through 1964, the government went approximately $28 billion deeper into debt. In the present state of monetary and fiscal policy, every time the government goes $1 billion deeper into debt, we can count on having a billion dollars of inflation.

"I have not said the Social Security Fund is bankrupt. I merely say that the Social Security Trust Fund is not in very good shape, because it is unfunded to the extent of about $32(billion. The way it will be made up is by contributions from future generations. The younger workers now coming into the labor force, probably 20 or 21 years old, will be paying along with the employer, $167 for every $100 in Social Security that the younger worker will get when he retires 40 to 45 years later.

"If these young workers went to a private insurance company and paid for a similar annuity, it would probably cost them about $35 a year."

Beginning in 1966 the annual cost of the Social Security-Medicare package to the employe and the employer combined will be $554.40. This cost will increase in steps until it reaches a total of $745.80 by 1987. It could be higher if Congress is forced to increase the rates because of creeping inflation.

Life is not going to be very much fun for the wage earner in 1987 unless there is a change in the attitude of our government--and the voters who want something for nothing which is impossible.

However, popularly the term "far right" is applied to those self-styled super patriots who'll beat you over the head with the flag if you don't agree that the communists are winning.

The super-dupers of the far right are people like Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, Ill., who made headlines writing "A Choice--Not an Echo"--a book with a better title than text.

In recent speeches she is quoted as saying that our country is being unilaterally disarmed by Secretary McNamara. Further that the unilateral disarmament of the United States is an important communist objective today.

John Stormer of Florissant is another super-duper flag waver. He wrote "None Dare Call It Treason." Another good title, another bad book.

He is being quoted recently as saying that Viet Nam may be "window dressing" for a high level meeting between Moscow and Washington officials at which the Americans will hand over Southeast Asia to the Soviet Union.

There are others, of course.

They all play the same tune. And get off key at the same place.

The tune is that the enemies are winning the world and that our country is asleep, doing nothing, misled, blind, inept and losing.

The place where the super-dupers of the far right get off key is here:

If you don't agree that there are commies under every bed and winning every political and military contest in the world, you are a fool, a comsymp or a communist.

And that's bunk--pure bunk.

What are the facts of life?

While our country must always have critics, the critics aren't always right. Thus, the far right is as necessary to a healthy democracy as its equivalent on the left.

We are not talking about the real far left--the communists--nor are we talking about the real far right -- the fascists (Nazi-type). Our country would be better off without either.

But getting back to our super-patriots and their continuing attacks on the men and women in our government--men and women of both parties:

We have more modern weapons in all branches than any other country in the world.

We have better trained, higher skilled soldiers, sailors and airmen than ever before except during World War II.

We have more money at work in defense research than ever before in our history--more money really than we are able to man.

Of course the communists would like to disarm the United States.

Disarming us would mean they could dominate the world because. . .there is no other force stopping them.

And we are stopping the communists.

We are stopping the Soviet on all fronts. Repeat, on all fronts.

We are stopping the Red Chinese everywhere.

We are in hot war in Viet Nam stopping the Viet Cong--the North Viet Nam Reds. They are related to but not the same as the Chicoms.

We are stopping the Reds throughout South America.

Nationwide publicity being given to the alleged scandal, in the operation of the personal property and inventory tax in California, is not focused on the real issue. The most scandalous aspect of the entire situation is the low level of economic understanding among may politicians in those states, which levy an inventory tax.

This is the opinion of C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business. It is based on the year long survey of independent business proprietors in all 50 states, conducted in 1964 by the organization. This survey, with more than 70,000 respondents, revealed that repeal of inventory taxes is supported by 73.4% of the businesses in California, to as high as 89% in New Jersey. The average oppostion, to such an impost in those states levying such a tax, is approximately 80%.

If there is proved to have been misconduct on the part of any public official, such as taking bribes to reduce assessments, such matters cannot be condoned. On the other hand, the public should better understand laws which tend not only to breed corruption, but also gouge the consuming public in hidden costs created by wholly fallacious taxing policies.

While there are reports that this situation is being investigated in many states collecting inventory taxes, and although there are variances in the manner of assessing the tax, the example of California where the furor started is quite typical.

Under the law, the county assessors place a valuation on all merchandise in stock in any wholesale, retail, service or manufacturing establishment, on the first Monday in March. This results in business coming practically to a standstill, the first quarter of the year, as every attempt is made to run down inventories as low as possible.

The assessment is made on the merchandise in stock whether it is owned outright, is on consignment, or is carried entirely by financing. The majority of inventories today are heavily financed and, as such, represent a liability rather than an asset. Thus, the tax is made on what a firm owes rather than what it owns.

That is a great variance in the method of assessing permitted. In the City and County of San Francisco, it is claimed that the assessors place a value on inventories at 50% of the invoice price from the supplier. On a $12 tax rate, per $10C of assessed valuation, this tax automatically increases the cost of the goods by 6%.

Thus, for example, an auto or piano invoiced to a dealer or wholesaler at $4,000, is assessed at $2,000, which on a $12 tax rate means an extra $240 must be charged the customer, while in a neighboring county only an additional $120 must be charged, but if the item is kept in a warehouse in another state where there are no inventory taxes the consumer does not pay any premium.

To aggravate the situation is the fact that many businesses, especially in the hardware and spare parts business, must carry slow moving items in stock in order to properly service customers. Thus, an item of this nature if carried in stock for four years, will be taxed before it moves to a customer four different years, quadrupling the costs against the item created by the tax.

In many areas, of which San Francisco is a leading example, many firms have moved out to avoid this type of taxation, with the result that Federal funds are then sought for urban renewal and for war on poverty to take up the slack created by the abandonment of the city.

If it is proved, and at this time there is a big if, there can be no question of public misconduct, and while rationalization of wrong doing cannot be acceptable, still human nature being what it is, it can be seen how such misconduct was rationalized. In other words, officials could in their own minds justify to some extent accepting money to favor certain firms on assessments with the knowledge that if they were taxed at the full assessment, they would move elsewhere to create a ghost community in the area.

In the 1965 session of the California legislature, the situation created by the inventory tax was recognized by those legislators with realistic economic knowledge pushing for removal of the tax.

However, other forces tied in this reform as bait in part of a totally unacceptable new taxing package proposal. The leadership was either too weak, or lacking in understanding, to isolate this issue with the result that no remedy was reached. The Association of County Assessors registered opposition on the basis that taxing goods in warehouses and stores is the easiest tax to levy.

This whole episode, revolving around exacting tribute on goods in transit, between the producer and the ultimate consumer does illustrate the flagrant disregard in many political circles toward either the best interests of business, employment, and the consumer.

In fact, there is no more concern displayed over the expansion of commerce and the welfare of the consumer shown, than was displayed when the Bedouins stopped the camel caravans of ancient times to exact tribute before letting the merchandise continue on the route, or by the robber barons along the Rhine who exacted tribute from shipments traveling down that waterway of ancient commerce.

If Uncle Sam's sailors are successful, the damage done by hurricanes will be greatly reduced and the tragic turmoil produced by these tropical killers will cease to take countless lives and maul property annually.

The name of the operation is Project Stormfury and the Navy is working with the Weather Bureau to see if seeding clouds can stop storms in their tracks before they play havoc with helpless householders.

Started in 1961, Project Stormfury will be revived between July 28 and October 1 when planes take to the air to seed storm coulds in the western Atlantic and eastern Caribbean. Up to 17 Navy, Air Force and Weather Bureau aircraft will take part in the project and try to record what happens when storms are seeded.

The basic technique involves seeding clouds surrounding the eye, or center of storms in order to release latent heat. Scientists hope this will trigger a chain reaction leading to the modifying of the destructive killer storms. Cumulus clouds will also be seeded with silver iodide canisters and project sicentists will experiment with hurricane rainbands for the first time. The rainbands are narrow, curved strips of heavy precipitation some distance from the eye of the hurricane.

Hurricane Beulah, which roared off the coast of Puerto Rico in 1963, gave Stormfury experts a chance to meet a killer face to face. Soon after seeding, the central pressure in the eye of the hurricane rose and the area of maximum winds moved away from the storm center, greatly reducing the striking power of the tropical tempest. The seeding operations might have caused the desired results, but scientists admit that natural oscillations within the hurricane, of which little is known, could have accounted for the changes. The experts need to know for sure.

So, with another hurricane season approaching, Navy and Weather Bureau storm fighters have their eyes on the sky. They want nothing more than to take on one of nature's most deadly weapons. What they learn could go a long way toward hastening the day when the hurricane season is no more.

It's expensive, dangerous work, but there's no doubt that it's worth the effort. The results might save your life.

H. L. Hunt Says

UNITY FOR FREEDOM

At the present moment the cause of individual liberty, constructive patriotism and sound moral value in America has reached an unusually low ebb.

History is full of the ebb and flow of great causes; the one thing we can be sure of is that movement and change will continue. We will not remain where we are. We may go up or down, or in a different direction, but we will not stand still.

If the cause of liberty, right and country is to move forward again, if the tide is to turn in freedom's favor in our time, we must attain a fundamental unity in support of it. This is especially difficult for friends of freedom precisely because they are proud to be distinct and self-reliant, independent individuals, often uncomfortable working in harness with others. In this, as well as every other respect they are the exact opposite of collectivists.

For that reason, it will continue to be necessary for a great variety of groups and individuals to undertake initiatives for freedom. But we must have at least some unity. That minimal unity must include a great reluctance on the part of any advocate of freedom to criticize any other unless he is convinced that the object of his criticism is doing much more harm than good.

This is just as true in the field of ideas as anywhere else. Many different ideas join together to form the freedom stream. For practical purposes, our concern should be with their end result rather than their source, so long as the end result is to swell the freedom tide.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Ominous reports have reached the United States that the Red Chinese are preparing to infiltrate 50,000 Vietnamese - speaking Guerrillas into South Viet Nam as a "first step" towards participation in the war.

The recruiting drive is centered in Kwangsi Province across the border from Viet Nam. The people of Southern Kwangsi are familiar enough with the Vietnamese language and customs that a Guerrilla force should be able to cross into Viet Nam without it appearing to be a Chinese invasion.

Significantly, these preparations are tied to the defection of Li Tsung-Jen, a former Nationalist Vice President, who recently slipped behind the Bamboo Curtain after 16 years in the United States. This column pointed out after his defection that Li was a hero to the people of Kwangsi Province.

Evidence that the Chinese Communists are now using Li to help form a Guerrilla force is contained in a confidential report to the army from John Hopkins University's operations research office. This office does much of the army's intelligence analysis.

Speaking of the Chinese preparation to send Guerrillas to Viet Nam, the report declares, "a total of 50,000 Vietnamese - speaking Kwangsi people will be conscripted as a first step . . .

"According to intelligence reports," the report continues, "Li Tsung-Jen, together with Chinese military leaders Lin Piao and Lo Jui-Ching . . . . called a high-level conference in Kwangsi Province to launch a movement for the Yao Minority group to participate in the war.

"50,000 volunteers of both sexes who can speak Vietnamese will be organized into military service. The Reserve Army will also be composed of 50,000.

"Within a short time, they will be dispatched from Hanoi to the battlefield in South Viet Nam to assist the Viet Cong Guerrillas in resisting American troops and the troops of South Viet Nam."

KING OF CORN

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, whose sagging face, woolly hair and organ voice are beloved in the Senate, has been called the "King of Corn" and the "Old Windbag."

Some researchers have found it appropriate that he once worked for the Corn Products Refining Company and served briefly as a World War I Balloonist.

But after the hot air has lifted, probably no past Minority Leader has wangled more patronage and won more concessions from the party in power.

A case in point is his attempt to upset the Supreme Court Ruling that State Legislatures must be apportioned according to population. When the Senate narrowly defeated his Constitutional Amendment, he came back with a slightly modified version.

He expected Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., to cast the deciding vote for it in the Judiciary Committee. When Dodd voted against it, old Ev cried out in dismay: "For chrissake, Tommy! You said you'd give me your vote!"

Dodd replied quietly that Ev must have misunderstood, but the "Wizzard of Ooze," as Dirksen is also called, isn't easily rebuffed. Muttering darkly that he wouldn't be pushed around, he retaliated by throwing a legislative block in the way of the Immigration Bill.

Around the White House, old Ev is sometimes known by still another nickname: "Irksome Dirksem." To avoid a collision, President Johnson did as past Presidents have frequently done; he saw to it that Dirksen got what he wanted.

SECRET PHONE CALL

This was arranged through Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who telephoned Dodd from the White House while the President hovered in the background. Mansfield urged Dodd to go along with Dirksen on Reapportionment in return for the Republican Leader's cooperation in springing the Immigration Bill.

This is merely the last in a series of Democratic efforts to keep Dirksen happy.

The late President Kennedy, for example, ignored the recommendations of Illinois Democrats by appointing Dirksen's nominee, Judge Bernard Decker, to the federal bench. This so embarrassed Dirksen's Democratic challenger, Sid Yates, that the White House tried to keep the appointment quiet until after the 1962 election. But the word leaked out that the White House thought more of Dirksen than of Yates.

To compound Yates' embarrassment, Mansfield as the Senate Democratic spokesman lavishly praised Dirksen on the eve of the 1962 election.

PRAISE FROM MANSFIELD

"Everett," said Mansfield, turning to the Republican Leader, "I am honored and grateful that you sit across the aisle from me. You are a tower of strength as a collaborator in the leadership of this body. For 30 years you have served your party faithfully and brilliantly. But for 30 years, you have served our country more."

The statement, circulated all over Illinois, helped to re-elect Dirksen.

Not long afterward, Kennedy appointed Dirksen's handpicked candidate, the late Harold Woodward, to the Federal Power Commission, thus giving him a voice in making billion-dollar decisions affecting the oil and gas industry. This was of more than casual interest to Dirksen, whose Peoria, Ill., law firm represents big oil and gas clients.

Earlier this year, Dirksen persuaded President Johnson to name still another of his friends, Carl Bagge, to the Federal Power Commission. This appointment, too, was part of the Democratic Placate-Dirksen Program.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Leaders Get LBJ's Pledge of Support In "Toughest Fight We Ever Had".

Washington, D. C.: -- Shortly before noon last Friday (Sept. 10) two rather portly men entered President Johnson's office. That moment marked the beginning of the final round of one of the toughest -- and costliest -- fights labor ever has made.

The visitors, America's Mr. Labor, George Meany, and Andy Biemiller, labor's perpetually-in-motion lobbyist, came not too long after they had learned that Republican Senate Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen had been quoting the late T.S. Eliot.

To paraphrase Sen. Dirksen paraphrasing T. S. Eliot, the message that came through sounded like: "That is the way the Congressional session ends, not with a bang but a whimper."

The point is who will do the whimpering?

The gentlemen from Illinois believes it ought to be the liberal-labor coalition in the Senate. He is determined to stop the repeal of the now classic item known as "Fourteen B," even if it means staying in session until New Year's Eve. (Fourteen B is the Taft-Hartley clause which gives states the right to ban labor contracts which make union membership a pre-requisite for keeping a job.)

This was discussed in the President's sanctum by Messrs. Johnson, Meany and Biemiller. The President said quietly he had given them his word and he would keep his commitment. Labor has his support in this fight. He would back it.

Just how the President will keep his pledge will be reported by Mr. Meany to labor's 29 - member high command, technically known as the AFL-CIO Executive Council. Already these hardy infighters are gathering in New York City for their pre-convention session.

It will undoubtedly be said, when the formal sessions open behind the traditionally-closed hotel room doors, that the President will battle with them to win repeal before the session ends.

The labor leaders have enough Senate votes to vote it through once it gets to a roll call. But their Senate friends total somewhere in the fifties -- not the 67 votes needed to smash a filibuster. So a good deal of the high command session will be spent on tactics to win over, or pressure over, some of the Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The labor leaders are mighty intense about repeal. To most of the high council, it seems they have been in this battle most of their lives. They've been at it since 1947. Thus a majority of the nation's working people -- especially those in their twenties, thirties and early forties really are unaware of the basic issue here.

It is not just the fact that 19 states have passed anti-union shop laws, which will be repealed if labor wins in the next 90 days.

Actually Fourteen B has become a costly test of labor's ultimate prestige and a final political breakthrough. It is in effect the last of the laws which harnessed labor to the "old days," when overalls were more the symbol than a white collar.

It has cost millions of dollars to fight over the past two decades. It has kept and keeps millions of dollars from the labor war chests on the political and industrial front.

From Joe Beirne, the Communication Workers' leader, who, though Irish, has a British type of characteristic understatement, comes word that the total battle cost has topped $20 million. Some $5 million of this money has come from the central AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington.

A rough estimate from the national office is that another $30 million dollars has been lost in dues in the 19 (once 20) states which ban the union shop contracts.

Thus, vast sums have been diverted from organization drives, political campaigns and other labor activities. It also has been tougher to picket, to unionize and to operate in these states which form a zig-zagging frontier, which the labor men really have not been able to crack. So they want repeal now.

They know if they fail this time they won't get it through next year --- when most of Congress rushes home for their re-election drives. Few Congressmen want to dash into these campaigns with a repeal vote just a few weeks behind them. Now there would be a year's hiatus. People would forget. Opponents would not be able to shout that the incumbent opened the sluice gate for the union armies.

So Mr. Labor went to see the President. And a few days later a national headquarters spokesman said:

"We are going to win this fight. We have enough votes to defeat the opposition on a repeal vote. But not enough to close debate. So the only way now is to outlast them in the Senate. This probably will be the toughest fight we've ever had. But they don't go home until they pass this."

WHAT DID YOU PAY FOR ANTIBIOTICS 25 YEARS AGO?
25 years ago you couldn't buy antibiotics at any price. Neither could you get tranquilizers, steroids, radioisotopes, polio vaccines, nor a host of wonder drugs that are now commonplace.
That's why it isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available 25 years ago. In fact, over three quarters of the prescriptions written today, are for drugs that didn't exist ten years ago.
Today, Americans spend only one cent from every disposable dollar on drugs. This is no more than in 1939. Also, today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness. That's why we say: "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

WHAT DID YOU PAY FOR ANTIBIOTICS 25 YEARS AGO?
25 years ago you couldn't buy antibiotics at any price. Neither could you get tranquilizers, steroids, radioisotopes, polio vaccines, nor a host of wonder drugs that are now commonplace.
That's why it isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available 25 years ago. In fact, over three quarters of the prescriptions written today, are for drugs that didn't exist ten years ago.
Today, Americans spend only one cent from every disposable dollar on drugs. This is no more than in 1938. Also, today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness. That's why we say: "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

Dexter Plays At Portageville Friday

Asked if he was pleased with the past performance of the Dexter Bearcats, Coach Mark Hopkins said:

"Well, yes and no. We made some normal mistakes which any team might make, such as fumbling and clipping, but we fought. The team is full of spirit and a driving hunger to get at Portageville this Friday night."

The line is the strength of the team centered around three real fine linemen. The three are: Mike Stern, end, who weighs 218, Jim Wooley, a 198 pound tackle, and Gary Christian a 160 pound lineman who is very mobile and aggressive.

In the Bearcat backfield Terry MacDonald is especially tough playing defensive back. MacDonald made eight tackles in Dexter's opening game with Jackson, which ended in 6-6 draw.

The Bearcat's Coach said, "At first I didn't believe that we would have a very good passing and receiving average but now, after a lot of work, I think we will do fairly good."

"The team I have this year wants to play football and they really go at it."

The average weight for the Bearcat line is 155.

He concluded, "We will have our hands full this Friday night. The Portageville Bulldogs have five boys over 210."

The Bulldogs have a lot of improvement to make on their defense and offense according to Coach Bill Nance. "We have four inexperienced boys on the line. I believe that we will do a fairly good job in view of the fact that few of our boys have ever played much football. As a matter of fact the only Bulldog in the back field that has played football is Glen Stewart. The rest of the backs have been converted from the line."

Portageville's passing game leaves a lot to be desired. The best receiver has played three minutes of football.

Coach Nance will be able to dress only 18 boys at the Dexter game this Friday night. He will have to dress some of his ninth grade boys.

Said Bulldog Coach, "The way it looks now, I figure that Dexter should beat us by at least five touchdowns. They have too much man power for us."

Mizzou Squares Off With Old Kentuck

COLUMBIA -- If Missouri has learned anything from its last two opening-game losses, the Tigers will be wary of Rick Norton's well-advertised passing but braced for a ground offensive in their 1965 debut against Kentucky here Saturday afternoon.

Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m. in the Bengal's expanded Memorial Stadium. Some 42,000 customers are expected for this premiere of Coach Dan Devine's eighth Mizzou football team and the 75th squad in Tiger history.

It's an important, intersectional struggle for both teams -- tapped by several magazines to be among the nation's top twenty grid powers. Missouri and Kentucky also are being touted as title contenders in their respective leagues.

For the third year in a row, Ol' Mizzou must rig its defenses to curb the aerial thrusts of a top-notch passer in an inaugural match. This time, Norton -- a poised, 200-pound senior from Louisville -- is the quarterback dandy who must be squelched if M. U. is to score its first opening-game triumph since 1962.

Yet, this obvious assumption can be all wrong, as it was in 1963 when the scheme was to harass Tom Myers of Northwestern -- or again last year when Craig Morton of California was the No. 1 target of Tiger defenders.

In each case, Myers and Morton did their jobs well -- but both their running backs ripped through Tiger ground defenses with notable success. The 'Cats out-rushed Mizzou, 143-115, while Cal's margin was more decisive, 226-119.

Norton passed 1,514 years last year -- with end Rick Kestner nabbing better than 40 percent of these shots, and Coach Charlie Bradshaw may not choose to alter that script materially, with both athletes still around. However, halfback Rodger Bird and fullback Frank Antonini run expertly with the football-- a fact of life that Mizzou can't forget. Bird scored 60 points last season, and averaged 5-yards a whack. Antonini is a converted halfback.

Both teams come into the contest, with one regular questionable. For Missouri -- plagued by a rash of nuisance injuries to first-string backs in September drills -- only Earl Denny, junior right-halfback, is a doubtful entry with a strained knee. Kentucky may not have Kestner, the nifty receiver recently grounded by a shoulder separation. He caught 42 passes for 639 yards as a junior.

The Tigers are under the whip of their senior field-boss, Gary Lane -- the Big Eight's total offense king for two years -- with either Charlie Brown or Ray Thorpe, LHB; Monroe Phelps, RHB; and Carl Reese, fullback. Lane, Brown and Reese finished 1-2-4 on the Black and Gold rushing tables last year -- while Phelps was the Tiger's top rusher in 1963 before being lost at mid-season with a knee injury.

Both offensively and defensively, the strength of M.U.'s line should be four, bruising senior tackles -- "Butch" Allison (232_ and Francis Peay (246), the sturdy blocking duo, and Bruce VanDyke (230) and Ron Snyder (208) on defense.

Of Missouri's top 22 entries, only four starters are sophomores. On offense, they are Al Chettle, center; and Jim Willsey, right guard. Russ Washington, left end, and linebacker Bob Powell are the rookie defenders. Powell was still in sweat-clothes at mid-week with a pulled leg muscle, and if still disabled Saturday will yield to another newcomer, Bob Ziegler.

Kentucky has been a swift starter under Bradshaw, while especially impressive in its getaway games under Devine. Bradshaw stands 2-0-1 in three inaugurals, Devine 3-4 at Missouri.

It's the first football clash between the two schools, and Kentucky's third run-in with a Big Eight team. The Wildcats knocked of Oklahoma, ranked No. 1 nationally, in the 1951 Orange Bowl, 13-7 -- and beat Kansas State, 21-8, in 1961

A PRESENT FOR MOTHER

"Dear Mr. Kneeman, My mother wants something from your store for her birthday. Lisa and I have save a book of stamps and $1.26 so please send me that much worth what ever you got that my mother wants.

"If it is close you got, my mother is not a regular mother size. She is a five children mother. She will be 37, so I guess she will wear size 37. Please do not send anything to small because Valli and Susie will get it. Love . . . "

It touched the store. The young lady got back her book of stamps with a gold pin for her mother that cost a little more than $1.26. ---Paul Crume

Our society cannot achieve greatness unless individuals at many levels of ability accept the need for high standards of performance and strive to achieve those standards within the limits possible for them. We want the highest conceivable excellence, of course, in the activities crucial to our effectiveness and creativity as a society; but that isn't enough. If the man in the street says, "Those fellows at the top have to be good, but I'm just a slob and can act like one" -- then our days of greatness are behind us. We must foster a conception of excellence which may be applied to every degree of ability and to every socially acceptable activity.

Duck Season Opens In October

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri's 1965 duck season will be Oct. 29 to Dec. 7 -- 40 days -- with general limits of four daily and eight in possession.

The statewide goose season, part of the waterfowl regulation set after federal season frameworks were announced, will be Oct. 20 to Dec. 3 and Dec. 22 to Jan. 15. Limits are five daily and in possession, including no more than two Canadas, two white-front geese or one of each.

The duck limits of four and eight also include restrictions for species management. Not more than two wood ducks and two canvasbacks may be taken daily or held in possession, while the limits on mallards and pintails are one each daily and two each in possession. The limit on coots is 10 and 20, while on mergansers it is five and 10, including not more than one hooded merganser daily and two in possession.

The statewide goose regulation is different from those in two special zones, one surrounding the Swan Lake National Wildlife Refuge and state hunting area, and the other surrounding Squaw Creek Wildlife Refuge.

In the Swan Lake Zone the season will be 70 consecutive days, starting Oct. 20 and ending Dec. 28, or when the kill in the zone reaches 25,000 geese, whichever occurs first. The Swan Lake Zone is bounded by U. S. Highway 36 and 65 and Missouri 5 and 240.

The season dates in the Squaw Creek Zone boundary will also be Oct. 20 to Dec. 28. for all geese except Canadas. These will have a special 30-day season of Oct. 20 to Nov. 18 with daily and possession limits of one. The Squaw Creek zone includes Atchison and Holt Counties and those sections of Nodaway and Andrew Counties west of U.S. 71.

No one could believe more wholeheartedly in private enterprise than I do. But no enterprise is so private that it can do without public spirit. Why does a business -- any business -- exist? From one point of view, to succeed financially, to earn a good healthy profit, to grow, to prosper. But there is another viewpoint as well. It says that the basic reason for any job, and for any business, is to get work done, to produce the goods and services the community needs, to create things that have public value. This view is fundamental. The fastbuck philosophy not only stands in the way of a good job, it robs the individual of the sense of real accomplishment that he needs in his personal life. He ought to approach business life with the idea that he has obligations to fulfill -- and that good management, sound business practice, and balanced judgment are ideals well worth his best striving.

Fuchs Runs 76-Yd. Touchdown

A 76-yard touchdown run by Chaminade's Bob Fuchs on a third down option play in the second quarter proved the margin of victory yesterday as the Flyers topped McBride High, 7-0. The game was played at Chaminade.

Chaminade outrushed the Micks, 131 yards to 72, and intercepted two passes in the nonleague football victory. McBride's deepest penetration was to Chaminade's 27-yard line.

ABUNDANCE

Our Father does not stay His hand when He
Pours gold into the chalice of a flower.
Nor does He say, "This will suffice," when He
Paints a bright rainbow after summer's shower.

There is no stinting in a rose's scent,
No holding back when color is applied.
To garden borders, nor to Heaven's arch.
Lift up your eyes! God's sky is blue and wide.

Nor does our Father spare the melody
That goes into a son bird's joyous call.
Know, then, His love for us can have no end.
God's gifts are boundless, with enough for all!

Charleston Goes Against Tilghman

CHARLESTON -- Coach of the Charleston Blue Jays Herb Marshall said, "We did nothing right in the Charleston - East game. We had very little defensive action and the offense didn't do it's job. East Prairie's own mistakes beat them. Idon't remember seeing anything we did right."

The Blue Jays will be playing Tilghman High of Paducah this Friday night.

Coach Marshall said:

"I believe that we have the fastest player in Southeast Missouri, Bob Richardson, who runs the hundred in 10.2 seconds.

"We are going into this season with a great amount of inexperience; Two of our boys in the back field, a guard and three sophomore line backers have never played varsity ball."

The Blue Jays need a lot of practice passing. In Charleston's first game with East Prairie only two passes were completed out of eight. "Our passing didn't look too potent," added Marshall. "I know we are going to have to progress a lot to stay in this league, since our team is greatly inexperienced."

Tilghman has a fair size team but not much speed. They have one more game under their belt than Charleston; And they have been scrimmaging since before the season opened. Charleston hasn't. "We are going to have to play 110 percent better ball than we have been playing to even stay up with Tilghman," said coach Herb Marshall.

Cards Dump Pirates Again

Don't tell the fans in Pittsburgh that the St. Louis Cardinals are in seventh place in the National League, 14 games behind San Francisco. They just won't believe you.

The Cards bombed the Pirates, 7-3 Wednesday night for their 16th straight victory in Forbes Field at Pittsburgh.

In the American League, Kansas City failed to slow Minnesota's rush toward the pennant, bowing to the Twins, 7-5.

Curt Flood led the Cardinals with five hits. The St. Louis centerfielder drove in five runs and upped his chances for his third consecutive 200-hit season. Flood's 5-for-6 night gave him the club lead in runs batted in with 77. He also leads the regulars with a .306 average.

Ray Sadecki picked up his fifth victory against 13 defeats, going 6 2-3 innings and giving up only three hits before Nelson Briles came on in relief.

The Cardinals wind up their season series with the Pirates tonight. Tracy Stallard 10-7 is scheduled to pitch for St. Louis against Tom Sisk 6-3.

Two Minnesota rookies came through with pinch singles Wednesday night to lead the Twins to victory and reduce the club's pennant-clinching number to six.

The ways of my puppy are funny indeed;
He eats like a pig, and he grows like a weed;
Runs like a deer, and he sleeps like a top,

Eagles Ready For Visiting Devils

Chaffee and East Prairie will be shooting for their first victories tomorrow night when the Red Devils invade Eagle land.

Last week Chaffee was defeated 27-0 by the Sikeston Bulldogs and the Eagles wings were clipped by the Charleston Blue Jays 28-0.

East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell said that his Eagles are ready for Chaffee.

Chaffee has plenty of speed and with their stacked interior line they press a team to use passing patterns.

Eagle quarterback Gary Risenhoover is expected to have a couple of bombs in store for the Red Devils.

An interesting note about Risenhoover is that he also pitches baseball and throws sidearm. Every football season he has to learn how to throw the football.

East Prairie has a strong backfield this year. Three of their halfbacks are juniors, Stevens, Franklin, Ashcraft.

Coach Powell said:

"My overall team is above average and the backs are exceptional. All three of my backs run the hundred in 10 to 11 seconds.

The Eagle receivers caught three out of seven passes against Charleston last week. They are Richard Hilton and Ronnie Cooper.

Coach Powell was concerned this year when six of his 200 pound tacklers didn't come out. He said:

SEPTEMBER IS BOURBON MONTH

matter of fact

The sabre-toothed tiger, an extinct member of the cat family, roamed North and South America 35,000,000 years ago. The huge blade-like canine teeth in the upper jaw gave the animal its name. The teeth were used for stabbing and slashing attacks upon the large thickskinned mastodons of that time. The mastodons were the chief prey of the sabre-toothed tigers and when they died out the tigers gradually became extinct. The La Brea tar pits in California have preserved a wealth of the bones of these animals.

Asked if he was pleased with the past performance of the Dexter Bearcats, Coach Mark Hopkins said:

"Well, yes and no. We made some normal mistakes which any team might make, such as fumbling and clipping, but we fought. The team is full of spirit and a driving hunger to get at Portageville this Friday night."

The line is the strength of the team centered around three real fine linemen. The three are: Mike Stern, end, who weighs 218, Jim Wooley, a 198 pound tackle, and Gary Christian a 160 pound lineman who is very mobile and aggressive.

In the Bearcat backfield Terry MacDonald is especially tough playing defensive back. MacDonald made eight tackles in Dexter's opening game with Jackson, which ended in 6-6 draw.

The Bearcat's Coach said, "At first I didn't believe that we would have a very good passing and receiving average but now, after a lot of work, I think we will do fairly good."

The average weight for the Bearcat line is 155.

He concluded, "We will have our hands full this Friday night. The Portageville Bulldogs have five boys over 210."

The Bulldogs have a lot of improvement to make on their defense and offense according to Coach Bill Nance. "We have four inexperienced boys on the line. I believe that we will do a fairly good job in view of the fact that few of our boys have ever played much football. As a matter of fact the only Bulldog in the back field that has played football is Glen Stewart. The rest of the backs have been converted from the line."

Portageville's passing game leaves a lot to be desired. The best receiver has played three minutes of football.

Coach Nance will be able to dress only 18 boys at the Dexter game this Friday night. He will have to dress some of his ninth grade boys.

Said Bulldog Coach, "The way it looks now, I figure that Dexter should beat us by at least five touchdowns. They have too much man power for us."

Mizzou Squares Off With Old Kentuck

COLUMBIA -- If Missouri has learned anything from its last two opening-game losses, the Tigers will be wary of Rick Norton's well-advertised passing but braced for a ground offensive in their 1965 debut against Kentucky here Saturday afternoon.

Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m. in the Bengal's expanded Memorial Stadium. Some 42,000 customers are expected for this premiere of Coach Dan Devine's eighth Mizzou football team and the 75th squad in Tiger history.

It's an important, intersectional struggle for both teams -- tapped by several magazines to be among the nation's top twenty grid powers. Missouri and Kentucky also are being touted as title contenders in their respective leagues.

For the third year in a row, Ol' Mizzou must rig its defenses to curb the aerial thrusts of a top-notch passer in an inaugural match. This time, Norton -- a poised, 200-pound senior from Louisville -- is the quarterback dandy who must be squelched if M. U. is to score its first opening-game triumph since 1962.

Yet, this obvious assumption can be all wrong, as it was in 1963 when the scheme was to harass Tom Myers of Northwestern -- or again last year when Craig Morton of California was the No. 1 target of Tiger defenders.

In each case, Myers and Morton did their jobs well -- but both their running backs ripped through Tiger ground defenses with notable success. The 'Cats out-rushed Mizzou, 143-115, while Cal's margin was more decisive, 226-119.

Norton passed 1,514 years last year -- with end Rick Kestner nabbing better than 40 percent of these shots, and Coach Charlie Bradshaw may not choose to alter that script materially, with both athletes still around. However, halfback Rodger Bird and fullback Frank Antonini run expertly with the football -- a fact of life that Mizzou can't forget. Bird scored 60 points last season, and averaged 5-yards a whack. Antonini is a converted halfback.

Both teams come into the contest, with one regular questionable. For Missouri -- plagued by a rash of nuisance injuries to first-string backs in September drills -- only Earl Denny, junior right-halfback, is a doubtful entry with a strained knee. Kentucky may not have Kestner, the nifty receiver recently grounded by a shoulder separation. He caught 42 passes for 639 yards as a junior.

The Tigers are under the whip of their senior field-boss, Gary Lane -- the Big Eight's total offense king for two years -- with either Charlie Brown or Ray Thorpe, LHB; Monroe Phelps, RHB; and Carl Reese, fullback. Lane, Brown and Reese finished 1-2-4 on the Black and Gold rushing tables last year -- while Phelps was the Tiger's top rusher in 1963 before being lost at mid-season with a knee injury.

Both offensively and defensively, the strength of M.U.'s line should be four, bruising senior tackles -- "Butch" Allison (232_ and Francis Peay (246), the sturdy blocking duo, and Bruce VanDyke (230) and Ron Snyder (208) on defense.

Of Missouri's top 22 entries, only four starters are sophomores. On offense, they are Al Chettle, center; and Jim Willsey, right guard. Russ Washington, left end, and linebacker Bob Powell are the rookie defenders. Powell was still in sweat-clothes at mid-week with a pulled leg muscle, and if still disabled Saturday will yield to another newcomer, Bob Ziegler.

Kentucky has been a swift starter under Bradshaw, while especially impressive in its getaway games under Devine. Bradshaw stands 2-0-1 in three inaugurals, Devine 3-4 at Missouri.

It's the first football clash between the two schools, and Kentucky's third run-in with a Big Eight team. The Wildcats knocked of Oklahoma, ranked No. 1 nationally, in the 1951 Orange Bowl, 13-7 -- and beat Kansas State, 21-8, in 1961

A PRESENT FOR MOTHER

"Dear Mr. Kneeman, My mother wants something from your store for her birthday. Lisa and I have save a book of stamps and $1.26 so please send me that much worth what ever you got that my mother wants.

"If it is close you got, my mother is not a regular mother size. She is a five children mother. She will be 37, so I guess she will wear size 37. Please do not send anything to small because Valli and Susie will get it. Love . . . "

It touched the store. The young lady got back her book of stamps with a gold pin for her mother that cost a little more than $1.26. ---Paul Crume

Our society cannot achieve greatness unless individuals at many levels of ability accept the need for high standards of performance and strive to achieve those standards within the limits possible for them. We want the highest conceivable excellence, of course, in the activities crucial to our effectiveness and creativity as a society; but that isn't enough. If the man in the street says, "Those fellows at the top have to be good, but I'm just a slob and can act like one" -- then our days of greatness are behind us. We must foster a conception of excellence which may be applied to every degree of ability and to every socially acceptable activity.

Duck Season Opens In October

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri's 1965 duck season will be Oct. 29 to Dec. 7 -- 40 days -- with general limits of four daily and eight in possession.

The statewide goose season, part of the waterfowl regulation set after federal season frameworks were announced, will be Oct. 20 to Dec. 3 and Dec. 22 to Jan. 15. Limits are five daily and in possession, including no more than two Canadas, two white-front geese or one of each.

The duck limits of four and eight also include restrictions for species management. Not more than two wood ducks and two canvasbacks may be taken daily or held in possession, while the limits on mallards and pintails are one each daily and two each in possession. The limit on coots is 10 and 20, while on mergansers it is five and 10, including not more than one hooded merganser daily and two in possession.

The statewide goose regulation is different from those in two special zones, one surrounding the Swan Lake National Wildlife Refuge and state hunting area, and the other surrounding Squaw Creek Wildlife Refuge.

In the Swan Lake Zone the season will be 70 consecutive days, starting Oct. 20 and ending Dec. 28, or when the kill in the zone reaches 25,000 geese, whichever occurs first. The Swan Lake Zone is bounded by U. S. Highway 36 and 65 and Missouri 5 and 240.

The season dates in the Squaw Creek Zone boundary will also be Oct. 20 to Dec. 28. for all geese except Canadas. These will have a special 30-day season of Oct. 20 to Nov. 18 with daily and possession limits of one. The Squaw Creek zone includes Atchison and Holt Counties and those sections of Nodaway and Andrew Counties west of U.S. 71.

No one could believe more wholeheartedly in private enterprise than I do. But no enterprise is so private that it can do without public spirit. Why does a business -- any business -- exist? From one point of view, to succeed financially, to earn a good healthy profit, to grow, to prosper. But there is another viewpoint as well. It says that the basic reason for any job, and for any business, is to get work done, to produce the goods and services the community needs, to create things that have public value. This view is fundamental. The fastbuck philosophy not only stands in the way of a good job, it robs the individual of the sense of real accomplishment that he needs in his personal life. He ought to approach business life with the idea that he has obligations to fulfill -- and that good management, sound business practice, and balanced judgment are ideals well worth his best striving.

Fuchs Runs 76-Yd. Touchdown

A 76-yard touchdown run by Chaminade's Bob Fuchs on a third down option play in the second quarter proved the margin of victory yesterday as the Flyers topped McBride High, 7-0. The game was played at Chaminade.

Chaminade outrushed the Micks, 131 yards to 72, and intercepted two passes in the nonleague football victory. McBride's deepest penetration was to Chaminade's 27-yard line.

Our Father does not stay His hand when He
Pours gold into the chalice of a flower.
Nor does He say, "This will suffice," when He
Paints a bright rainbow after summer's shower.

There is no stinting in a rose's scent,
No holding back when color is applied.
To garden borders, nor to Heaven's arch.

Charleston Goes Against Tilghman

CHARLESTON -- Coach of the Charleston Blue Jays Herb Marshall said, "We did nothing right in the Charleston - East game. We had very little defensive action and the offense didn't do it's job. East Prairie's own mistakes beat them. Idon't remember seeing anything we did right."

The Blue Jays will be playing Tilghman High of Paducah this Friday night.

Coach Marshall said:

"I believe that we have the fastest player in Southeast Missouri, Bob Richardson, who runs the hundred in 10.2 seconds.

"We are going into this season with a great amount of inexperience; Two of our boys in the back field, a guard and three sophomore line backers have never played varsity ball."

The Blue Jays need a lot of practice passing. In Charleston's first game with East Prairie only two passes were completed out of eight. "Our passing didn't look too potent," added Marshall. "I know we are going to have to progress a lot to stay in this league, since our team is greatly inexperienced."

Tilghman has a fair size team but not much speed. They have one more game under their belt than Charleston; And they have been scrimmaging since before the season opened. Charleston hasn't. "We are going to have to play 110 percent better ball than we have been playing to even stay up with Tilghman," said coach Herb Marshall.

Cards Dump Pirates Again

Don't tell the fans in Pittsburgh that the St. Louis Cardinals are in seventh place in the National League, 14 games behind San Francisco. They just won't believe you.

The Cards bombed the Pirates, 7-3 Wednesday night for their 16th straight victory in Forbes Field at Pittsburgh.

In the American League, Kansas City failed to slow Minnesota's rush toward the pennant, bowing to the Twins, 7-5.

Curt Flood led the Cardinals with five hits. The St. Louis centerfielder drove in five runs and upped his chances for his third consecutive 200-hit season. Flood's 5-for-6 night gave him the club lead in runs batted in with 77. He also leads the regulars with a .306 average.

Ray Sadecki picked up his fifth victory against 13 defeats, going 6 2-3 innings and giving up only three hits before Nelson Briles came on in relief.

The Cardinals wind up their season series with the Pirates tonight. Tracy Stallard 10-7 is scheduled to pitch for St. Louis against Tom Sisk 6-3.

Two Minnesota rookies came through with pinch singles Wednesday night to lead the Twins to victory and reduce the club's pennant-clinching number to six.

Eagles Ready For Visiting Devils

Chaffee and East Prairie will be shooting for their first victories tomorrow night when the Red Devils invade Eagle land.

Last week Chaffee was defeated 27-0 by the Sikeston Bulldogs and the Eagles wings were clipped by the Charleston Blue Jays 28-0.

East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell said that his Eagles are ready for Chaffee.

Chaffee has plenty of speed and with their stacked interior line they press a team to use passing patterns.

Eagle quarterback Gary Risenhoover is expected to have a couple of bombs in store for the Red Devils.

An interesting note about Risenhoover is that he also pitches baseball and throws sidearm. Every football season he has to learn how to throw the football.

East Prairie has a strong backfield this year. Three of their halfbacks are juniors, Stevens, Franklin, Ashcraft.

Coach Powell said:

"My overall team is above average and the backs are exceptional. All three of my backs run the hundred in 10 to 11 seconds.

The Eagle receivers caught three out of seven passes against Charleston last week. They are Richard Hilton and Ronnie Cooper.

Coach Powell was concerned this year when six of his 200 pound tacklers didn't come out. He said:

The sabre-toothed tiger, an extinct member of the cat family, roamed North and South America 35,000,000 years ago. The huge blade-like canine teeth in the upper jaw gave the animal its name. The teeth were used for stabbing and slashing attacks upon the large thickskinned mastodons of that time. The mastodons were the chief prey of the sabre-toothed tigers and when they died out the tigers gradually became extinct. The La Brea tar pits in California have preserved a wealth of the bones of these animals.

Bravo Company Did Not Train For Jungle War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP – It was one of those times when nothing goes right. It began with an abortive raid on a Viet Cong stronghold and ended amid the burning wreckage of a crashed helicopter.

In between came 30 nightmare hours of hacking and marching through the jungle of Viet Nam's central highlands with one company of "Screaming Eagles" of the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division close to An Khe.

Hungry and thirsty, though drenched to the skin by blinding rainstorms, men of Bravo company gave uncomplaining testimony to the fighting spirit of their crack paratrooper outfit while breaking almost every rule in the manual of jungle warfare.

Training in the United States did not prepare them for impenetrable thorn thickets or spike-studded creepers that trip a man or slash at his face, hands and clothing. Before they came to Viet Nam five weeks ago, these men had been taught to fight in the desert.

"It's going to be one of those pick 'em up and lay 'em down footslogging infantry affairs," warned Lt. Col. Joseph B. Rogers of Fairfax, Va., as he outlined an operation to flush out and destroy Viet Cong guerrillas.

Bravo company, led by Capt. James Nichols of Clarksville, Tenn., had been assigned to act as the western side of a piston to drive the Viet Cong on to the guns of another company airlifted into the zone in helicopters.

Within minutes of starting their march at 1:45 a.m., Bravo company soldiers gave practical demonstrations of their inexperience in jungle fighting. Men talked, giving away their position; they moved bunched together, presenting a choice target for Viet Cong machine guns.

Later, they walked up the dry bed of a stream. Its steep banks would have given few any chance to escape an ambush.

By daybreak, the company still was a long way from its attack point, which it was due to reach before dawn. Artillery fire and strafing by helicopter gunships, scheduled to coincide with the advance, could be heard in the distance.

Bravo company then got lost. Colored smoke grenades were used to reveal the company's position for spotter aircraft which guided the troops out of the jungle.

Men also used jungle trails familiar to the Viet Cong. Two --slices of needle - sharp bamboo planted by the Viet Cong. PLANTED BY THE Viet Hundreds of punji sticks, many of them smeared with filth to make a wound fester, had been left.

When Bravo company reached the suspect zone, four hours behind schedule, all Viet Cong had left. Soldiers burned bamboo huts hidden in the jungle, destroyed food caches and blew up underground bunkers.

At 3 p.m., the company set out for a helicopter landing zone 2½ miles away. Eleven hours and two driving rainstorms later, the company flopped exhausted on the trail, utterly lost.

No guards were posted and no defense perimeter was established. Radio contact had been blotted out. Men slept in their wet combat fatigues in the mud.

Lt. Philip Norman, a rangy, taciturn Texan who was graduated from Rice University, sent word to platoon commanders to keep half their men awake.

Then he organized a small squad to move forward to seek a clearing where a defense perimiter could be set up in case of an attack at dawn. Alternatively, he was trying to find the way to the landing zone. Several mortar bombs came whistling overhead and exploded harmlessly in the jungle.

Norman also re-established radio contact and asked the troops holding the landing zone to fire flare bombs. Several of these were invisible in the darkness of the jungle, where progress was cut by nightfall to 60 yards an hour from a daylight average of 300 yards.

Norman and his party reached their objective at 8:15 a.m. His men had been marching almost without a break for 30 hours.

The rest of the company emerged from the jungle an hour later. Most had slept until daylight. Despite the debacle, the physical condition of Bravo company and their high morale were evident.

Flying back to An Khe in the helicopter which brought "C" rations and water for Bravo company, this reporter and another newsman heard a sharp clunk from the engine department and a red light began glowing on the pilot's dashboard.

The roar of the helicopter's engine subsided. The aircraft began to drop fast from 1,500 feet. The pilot remained icy calm.

He switched the rotor blades to auto-rotation and the helicopter windmilled down. One of the machine gunners turned and said: "Don't worry."

The pounding contact with the ground followed almost immediately. The fuselage canted to its left and trapped the copilot. A voice could be heard moaning: "I'm hurt. My leg, my leg."

Crewmen grabbed fire extinguisher. Soldiers appeared from nowhere. One pointed to the stricken copilot and yelled: "Get him out!"

Some tried to reach the copilot from the left side but were driven back by flames. Then a team of men pulled him free. They carried him to another helicopter which had landed in a nearby clearing. His back was fractured.

Helicopters flew the injured to An Khe's aid station. The two writers had cuts and bruises.

Scouts Will Use Compass

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Boy Scouts in the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America, will learn about mapping and the use of the compass as 150 Boy Scout troops follow the October theme, "Map It."

The training as a part of the weekly troop meetings will qualify the Scouts in the use of compass and map and will lead to the month's highlight, the mapper's field day.

Among the suggested events for the mapper's field day are a cross-country orienteering course and a contest that teaches Scouts how to recognize topographical map symbols.

Eight-, nine-, and ten-year-old Cub Scouts in the Southeast Missouri Council will be practicing "Magic Words" during October--please, thank you, pardon me, you're welcome -- and will perform skits, play games, make costumes, and have special activities related to the "language of human relations." Newcomer said.

Many of the 130 Cub Scouts packs will hold a space derby with boy-made rockets, tie in their monthly pack meeting with Halloween, and participate in Fire Prevention Week.

Fire safety will also be a feature of the October program for high-school-age Explorers as they give fire prevention and suppression demonstrations before Boy Scout troops and adult organizations. Other October program activities suggested for Explorers include a Roundup barbecue and a Keep America Beautiful event.

Round Table Plans Announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Cub Scout and Boy Scout leaders will get "more skills and less talk" at the October round tables held in the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to J. C. Newcomer, council Scout commissioner.

The Cub Scout round tables will help cubmasters and assistants, den mothers, and pack committeemen learn program resources for the Cub Scout advancement program.

The special feature of both the Cub Scouting and Boy Scouting round tables will be a presentation on the breakthrough for youth program of the Boy Scouts of America including details on goals and awards and a question-and-answer period.

The Boy Scouting round tables will also feature rope-work and lashings, boy recruiting, and practical information about the emergency preparedness program for Boy Scout troops.

Fulbright Adds Fog To Dominican Crisis

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas has denounced the Johnson administration's handling of the Dominican Republic revolt while practically excusing President Johnson of blame.

This just adds confusion to a situation which was already a little foggy. And Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, admits he is now talking from the "benefit of hindsight."

But Fulbright might have no complaint at all if Johnson could have waited for the benefit of hindsight before deciding it was necessary to send Marines into the Dominican Republic. Then he might have acted differently.

Briefly, this was the background:

A few days after the revolt began last April against a reactionary regime in the Dominican Republic Johnson announced he was sending in Marines to protect American lives.

Shortly afterwards he gave another reason: Fear that Communists might try to take over.

But Johnson acted on the advice of the American "country team" in the Dominican Republic — members of various American agency and military groups there — and with the advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

When he made the decision to use troops, Johnson called leading members of Congress to the White House, including Fulbright, to explain his actions.

Sen. Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat who disagrees with Fulbright's speech of Wednesday, was at that White House meeting and says nobody, including Fulbright, raised a dissenting voice.

Later, when it turned out the Communists were not in control of the revolution, Johnson got some criticism on the use of troops but he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

Now, more than four months later, with the revolt ended and a new provisional government established in the Dominican Republic as a preliminary to elections in about nine months, Fulbright ripped into Johnson's action.

Yet, he said: "On the basis of the information and counsel he (Johnson) received, the President could hardly have acted other than he did; it is very difficult to understand however why so much unsound advice was given him."

But Fulbright also said: "The reason (for American intervention) appears to be that very close to the beginning of the revolution U.S. policymakers decided that it should not be allowed to succeed."

The senator offers no proof of this charge although his statement will be widely read in Latin America and may antagonize non-Communist Latin Americans who wish to throw out reactionary regimes and provide a better life for their people.

Fulbright said the "danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive U.S. intervention."

Yet, while Fulbright says the evidence doesn't "establish" that the Communists at any time actually controlled the revolution, he said "there is little doubt that they had influence within the revolutionary movement, but the degree of that influence remains a matter of speculation."

By this statement Fulbright is acknowledging that even now it is not fully known how great a force the Communists were in the revolution at the time Johnson used troops to prevent their taking over.

Fulbright put it this way: "The issue is not whether there was Communist influence in the Dominican revolution but its degree, which is something on which reasonable men can differ.

"The burden of proof, however, is on those who take action, and the administration has not proven its assertion of Communist control."

But if Johnson and his advisers knew the Communists were involved — which Fulbright admits — but couldn't know then, since nobody yet knows how deeply they were involved, then the President faced this question:

Should he wait until it became clear beyond doubt that the Reds had grabbed control before sending in Marines? If he did, it might have meant war with a new Red-run Dominican government. When the United states found out how much of a Communist Fidel Castro was, it was too late to squelch him.

And no American president can possibly sit back and do nothing if Reds attempt to take over any country in Latin America. As Johnson said later, he'd rather be critized for his action than not to have acted.

Wind Topples Dexter Tree

DEXTER -Southeast Missouri is a long way from the coastal sections that wrestle with hurricanes, but after the rain that fell here Saturday, most residents have at least an inkling of the force of such a storm. Hurricane Betsy, as the storm was named, dumped almost six inches of rain here and was accompanied by strong winds.

In the down town area, a big elm tree, just west of the Doane Agriculture Service Building on West Stoddard Street, was blown down, blocking traffic on West Stoddard for approximately an hour and a half early Saturday.

POPLAR BLUFF -- Jeffrey Shawan, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shawan, is in good condition in Doctors Hospital after suffering a skull fracture when hit by a ball bat about 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Mark Twain School playground.

Mrs. Shawan said Jeffrey received a blow to the temple accidentally and was knocked unconscious. She said it is not known exactly how the accident happened.

Two Injured In Malden Crash

MALDEN -- Two persons were injured in a collision on highway 25 here Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.

Lena Mae Matson, 70, of Gideon sustained leg cuts and a 15-year-old boy from Campbell received body bruises and leg cuts in the collision of a car and a motorcycle.

The highway patrol reported that the Gideon woman was driving a 1963 Chevrolet north and made a left turn in front of the 1964 Honda, driven south by the boy, and the two vehicles hit headon.

Both of the drivers were taken to Croom's Clinic and treated. The Gideon woman was issued a summons for careless and reckless driving.

Bravo Company Did Not Train For Jungle War

In between came 30 nightmare hours of hacking and marching through the jungle of Viet Nam's central highlands with one company of "Screaming Eagles" of the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division close to An Khe.

Hungry and thirsty, though drenched to the skin by blinding rainstorms, men of Bravo company gave uncomplaining testimony to the fighting spirit of their crack paratrooper outfit while breaking almost every rule in the manual of jungle warfare.

Training in the United States did not prepare them for impenetrable thorn thickets or spike-studded creepers that trip a man or slash at his face, hands and clothing. Before they came to Viet Nam five weeks ago, these men had been taught to fight in the desert.

"It's going to be one of those pick 'em up and lay 'em down footslogging infantry affairs," warned Lt. Col. Joseph B. Rogers of Fairfax, Va., as he outlined an operation to flush out and destroy Viet Cong guerrillas.

Bravo company, led by Capt. James Nichols of Clarksville, Tenn., had been assigned to act as the western side of a piston to drive the Viet Cong on to the guns of another company airlifted into the zone in helicopters.

Within minutes of starting their march at 1:45 a.m., Bravo company soldiers gave practical demonstrations of their inexperience in jungle fighting. Men talked, giving away their position; they moved bunched together, presenting a choice target for Viet Cong machine guns.

Later, they walked up the dry bed of a stream. Its steep banks would have given few any chance to escape an ambush.

By daybreak, the company still was a long way from its attack point, which it was due to reach before dawn. Artillery fire and strafing by helicopter gunships, scheduled to coincide with the advance, could be heard in the distance.

Bravo company then got lost. Colored smoke grenades were used to reveal the company's position for spotter aircraft which guided the troops out of the jungle.

Men also used jungle trails familiar to the Viet Cong. Two --slices of needle - sharp bamboo planted by the Viet Cong. PLANTED BY THE Viet Hundreds of punji sticks, many of them smeared with filth to make a wound fester, had been left.

When Bravo company reached the suspect zone, four hours behind schedule, all Viet Cong had left. Soldiers burned bamboo huts hidden in the jungle, destroyed food caches and blew up underground bunkers.

At 3 p.m., the company set out for a helicopter landing zone 2½ miles away. Eleven hours and two driving rainstorms later, the company flopped exhausted on the trail, utterly lost.

No guards were posted and no defense perimeter was established. Radio contact had been blotted out. Men slept in their wet combat fatigues in the mud.

Lt. Philip Norman, a rangy, taciturn Texan who was graduated from Rice University, sent word to platoon commanders to keep half their men awake.

Then he organized a small squad to move forward to seek a clearing where a defense permiter could be set up in case of an attack at dawn. Alternatively, he was trying to find the way to the landing zone. Several mortar bombs came whistling overhead and exploded harmlessly in the jungle.

Norman also re-established radio contact and asked the troops holding the landing zone to fire flare bombs. Several of these were invisible in the darkness of the jungle, where progress was cut by nightfall to 60 yards an hour from a daylight average of 300 yards.

Norman and his party reached their objective at 8:15 a.m. His men had been marching almost without a break for 30 hours.

The rest of the company emerged from the jungle an hour later. Most had slept until daylight. Despite the debacle, the physical condition of Bravo company and their high morale were evident.

Flying back to An Khe in the helicopter which brought "C" rations and water for Bravo company, this reporter and another newsman heard a sharp clunk from the engine department and a red light began glowing on the pilot's dashboard.

The roar of the helicopter's engine subsided. The aircraft began to drop fast from 1,500 feet. The pilot remained icy calm.

He switched the rotor blades to auto-rotation and the helicopter windmilled down. One of the machine gunners turned and said: "Don't worry."

The pounding contact with the ground followed almost immediately. The fuselage canted to its left and trapped the copilot. A voice could be heard moaning: "I'm hurt. My leg, my leg."

Crewmen grabbed fire extinguisher. Soldiers appeared from nowhere. One pointed to the stricken copilot and yelled: "Get him out!"

Some tried to reach the copilot from the left side but were driven back by flames. Then a team of men pulled him free. They carried him to another helicopter which had landed in a nearby clearing. His back was fractured.

Helicopters flew the injured to An Khe's aid station. The two writers had cuts and bruises.

Scouts Will Use Compass

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Boy Scouts in the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America, will learn about mapping and the use of the compass as 150 Boy Scout troops follow the October theme, "Map It."

The training as a part of the weekly troop meetings will qualify the Scouts in the use of compass and map and will lead to the month's highlight, the mapper's field day.

Among the suggested events for the mapper's field day are a cross-country orienteering course and a contest that teaches Scouts how to recognize topographical map symbols.

Eight-, nine-, and ten-year-old Cub Scouts in the Southeast Missouri Council will be practicing "Magic Words" during October--please, thank you, pardon me, you're welcome -- and will perform skits, play games, make costumes, and have special activities related to the "language of human relations." Newcomer said.

Many of the 130 Cub Scouts packs will hold a space derby with boy-made rockets, tie in their monthly pack meeting with Halloween, and participate in Fire Prevention Week.

Fire safety will also be a feature of the October program for high-school-age Explorers as they give fire prevention and suppression demonstrations before Boy Scout troops and adult organizations. Other October program activities suggested for Explorers include a Roundup barbecue and a Keep America Beautiful event.

Round Table Plans Announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Cub Scout and Boy Scout leaders will get "more skills and less talk" at the October round tables held in the Southeast Missouri Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to J. C. Newcomer, council Scout commissioner.

The Cub Scout round tables will help cubmasters and assistants, den mothers, and pack committeemen learn program resources for the Cub Scout advancement program.

The special feature of both the Cub Scouting and Boy Scouting round tables will be a presentation on the breakthrough for youth program of the Boy Scouts of America including details on goals and awards and a question-and-answer period.

The Boy Scouting round tables will also feature rope-work and lashings, boy recruiting, and practical information about the emergency preparedness program for Boy Scout troops.

Fulbright Adds Fog To Dominican Crisis

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas has denounced the Johnson administration's handling of the Dominican Republic revolt while practically excusing President Johnson of blame.

This just adds confusion to a situation which was already a little foggy. And Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, admits he is now talking from the "benefit of hindsight."

But Fulbright might have no complaint at all if Johnson could have waited for the benefit of hindsight before deciding it was necessary to send Marines into the Dominican Republic. Then he might have acted differently.

Briefly, this was the background:

A few days after the revolt began last April against a reactionary regime in the Dominican Republic Johnson announced he was sending in Marines to protect American lives.

Shortly afterwards he gave another reason: Fear that Communists might try to take over.

But Johnson acted on the advice of the American "country team" in the Dominican Republic — members of various American agency and military groups there — and with the advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

When he made the decision to use troops, Johnson called leading members of Congress to the White House, including Fulbright, to explain his actions.

Sen. Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat who disagrees with Fulbright's speech of Wednesday, was at that White House meeting and says nobody, including Fulbright, raised a dissenting voice.

Later, when it turned out the Communists were not in control of the revolution, Johnson got some criticism on the use of troops but he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

Now, more than four months later, with the revolt ended and a new provisional government established in the Dominican Republic as a preliminary to elections in about nine months, Fulbright ripped into Johnson's action.

Yet, he said: "On the basis of the information and counsel he (Johnson) received, the President could hardly have acted other than he did; it is very difficult to understand however why so much unsound advice was given him."

But Fulbright also said: "The reason (for American intervention) appears to be that very close to the beginning of the revolution U.S. policymakers decided that it should not be allowed to succeed."

The senator offers no proof of this charge although his statement will be widely read in Latin America and may antagonize non-Communist Latin Americans who wish to throw out reactionary regimes and provide a better life for their people.

Fulbright said the "danger to American lives was more a pretext than a reason for the massive U.S. intervention."

Yet, while Fulbright says the evidence doesn't "establish" that the Communists at any time actually controlled the revolution, he said "there is little doubt that they had influence within the revolutionary movement, but the degree of that influence remains a matter of speculation."

By this statement Fulbright is acknowledging that even now it is not fully known how great a force the Communists were in the revolution at the time Johnson used troops to prevent their taking over.

Fulbright put it this way: "The issue is not whether there was Communist influence in the Dominican revolution but its degree, which is something on which reasonable men can differ.

"The burden of proof, however, is on those who take action, and the administration has not proven its assertion of Communist control."

But if Johnson and his advisers knew the Communists were involved — which Fulbright admits — but couldn't know then, since nobody yet knows how deeply they were involved, then the President faced this question:

Should he wait until it became clear beyond doubt that the Reds had grabbed control before sending in Marines? If he did, it might have meant war with a new Red-run Dominican government. When the United states found out how much of a Communist Fidel Castro was, it was too late to squelch him.

And no American president can possibly sit back and do nothing if Reds attempt to take over any country in Latin America. As Johnson said later, he'd rather be critized for his action than not to have acted.

Wind Topples Dexter Tree

DEXTER -Southeast Missouri is a long way from the coastal sections that wrestle with hurricanes, but after the rain that fell here Saturday, most residents have at least an inkling of the force of such a storm. Hurricane Betsy, as the storm was named, dumped almost six inches of rain here and was accompanied by strong winds.

In the down town area, a big elm tree, just west of the Doane Agriculture Service Building on West Stoddard Street, was blown down, blocking traffic on West Stoddard for approximately an hour and a half early Saturday.

POPLAR BLUFF -- Jeffrey Shawan, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shawan, is in good condition in Doctors Hospital after suffering a skull fracture when hit by a ball bat about 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Mark Twain School playground.

Mrs. Shawan said Jeffrey received a blow to the temple accidentally and was knocked unconscious. She said it is not known exactly how the accident happened.

Two Injured In Malden Crash

Lena Mae Matson, 70, of Gideon sustained leg cuts and a 15-year-old boy from Campbell received body bruises and leg cuts in the collision of a car and a motorcycle.

The highway patrol reported that the Gideon woman was driving a 1963 Chevrolet north and made a left turn in front of the 1964 Honda, driven south by the boy, and the two vehicles hit headon.

Both of the drivers were taken to Croom's Clinic and treated. The Gideon woman was issued a summons for careless and reckless driving.

Look To Fall With Confidence

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely have Americans greeted an approaching fall season with such general confidence in the economy.

Even some of the disquieting prospects--increased fighting in basia and a probable rise in prices of some basic items as production costs mount—have a silver lining for those who expect prosperity to continue with a show of sober if gratifying gains.

The stepped-up shooting war in Asia is deplored for many reasons. But in the purely economic field it seems to promise a nudge upward for business activity, already at a record high in most sectors. The stimulant will come from growing spending for military hardware and manpower.

Expectation of rising prices, along with greater production of hard goods, has led many in the stock market to count on still higher profits for corporations. Also some find stocks attractive as a hedge against the chance of any further inflation. Settlement terms of the steel strike were initially interpreted that way on Wall Street.

One is the momentum of the long economic upswing, now in its 55th month, which promises to carry through for the rest of the year.

Another is satisfaction that this summer's performance was much better than some worriers had been predicting.

And a third is the evident strength of the economy. Most of the statistics will be bigger and better this fall now that the government has revised its methods of compiling them.

And the optimists say the economy has too much muscle now to be easily upset.

They also count on Washington to prescribe a tonic fast if the muscles show signs of growing flabby.

They are far from that at the start of the fall season. The three mainstays of the economy are all strong.

First is consumer spending and confidence. With personal incomes and savings higher than ever, and with a record number of Americans at work, the wherewithal to buy the goods and services that industry produces is plentiful. The will to spend, or to go into debt, seems strong.

The second prop is business spending for capital goods, such as plants and equipment. That is expected to hit an annual rate of $53 billion in the three months just ahead, compared with just under $51 billion in the spring.

The third stimulant to economic growth is government spending. Total state and local government spending continues to rise to fill the needs or meet the demands of a growing population. Federal outlays will increase as the Viet Nam War grows more costly and the many projects of the Great Society take form and expand.

Look To Fall With Confidence

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely have Americans greeted an approaching fall season with such general confidence in the economy.

Even some of the disquieting prospects--increased fighting in basia and a probable rise in prices of some basic items as production costs mount—have a silver lining for those who expect prosperity to continue with a show of sober if gratifying gains.

The stepped-up shooting war in Asia is deplored for many reasons. But in the purely economic field it seems to promise a nudge upward for business activity, already at a record high in most sectors. The stimulant will come from growing spending for military hardware and manpower.

Expectation of rising prices, along with greater production of hard goods, has led many in the stock market to count on still higher profits for corporations. Also some find stocks attractive as a hedge against the chance of any further inflation. Settlement terms of the steel strike were initially interpreted that way on Wall Street.

One is the momentum of the long economic upswing, now in its 55th month, which promises to carry through for the rest of the year.

Another is satisfaction that this summer's performance was much better than some worriers had been predicting.

And a third is the evident strength of the economy. Most of the statistics will be bigger and better this fall now that the government has revised its methods of compiling them.

In economics, as in many other lines, quite often nothing succeeds like success. Its effect on confidence is well established.

And the optimists say the economy has too much muscle now to be easily upset.

They also count on Washington to prescribe a tonic fast if the muscles show signs of growing flabby.

They are far from that at the start of the fall season. The three mainstays of the economy are all strong.

First is consumer spending and confidence. With personal incomes and savings higher than ever, and with a record number of Americans at work, the wherewithal to buy the goods and services that industry produces is plentiful. The will to spend, or to go into debt, seems strong.

The second prop is business spending for capital goods, such as plants and equipment. That is expected to hit an annual rate of $53 billion in the three months just ahead, compared with just under $51 billion in the spring.

The third stimulant to economic growth is government spending. Total state and local government spending continues to rise to fill the needs or meet the demands of a growing population. Federal outlays will increase as the Viet Nam War grows more costly and the many projects of the Great Society take form and expand.

Ethiopian Gift For Truman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) - Former President Harry S. Truman received a gift of gratitude from the emperor of Ethiopia Wednesday - an ancient parchment of the Four Gospels. He commented "it's in a language I can't read."

The book is printed in G'ez, the ecclesiastical and liturgical language of Ethiopia.

The gift was delivered by Yelma Deressa, the minister of finance of Ethiopia. It was in appreciation for the United States help in creating the Ethiopian Airlines in 1945-one of the first actions under Truman's Point Four program of technical aid to the peoples of the developing areas of the world.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

A course in Occupational Analysis for vocational teachers and administrators was organized at Senior High School Monday evening. The class will meet two hours each week for 16 weeks and those successfully completing it will receive two hours graduate college credit. Jim Cornett, of the University of Missouri faculty, will teach the course. Thirty three students from various Southeast Missouri schools are enrolled. Twenty three of this group are Sikeston school faculty members. The purpose of the course is to develop and to analyze courses in occupational education.

Another graduate class for teachers will be organized this evening, (Thursday, September 16) all at the Senior High School. The course, Principles and Procedures of Student Personnel Work, under the sponsorship of Southeast Missouri State College, will meet three hours weekly for 16 weeks for three hours graduate credit. The purpose of this course is to train teachers in student personal planning, accounting, organization and administration. This course can be filled with teachers from our schools but will also be open to teachers from neighboring communities.

The interest in graduate courses indicates, on the part of the faculty members, a desire to improve their skills, competence and professional qualifications in order to give their students better educational opportunities.

In his book, "Human Capital," Doctor Gary Becker estimates that a college education usually pays for itself in about ten years and for every $1,000 spent in college, the average student increases his earning power more than $100 a year. He also says the national economy gains $2,000 a year from the $20,000 invested in the average four years college education.

We are sure that the same thing is equally true of vocational education and that the vocational student is amply compensated for the time and money spent in occupational education and training. We know for sure that those students who successfully complete the courses which we are teaching can and do get well-paid jobs. One student was employed, immediately after finishing a two year high school course in design drafting, at $5400 per year. Other students who have the knowledge and skills required in their vocational choice are successful in finding good jobs. So, it would seem, that education in high school, trade-technical schools or college is a sound investment for the student and the community in terms of better income and to this we can add the values which our society gets from competent and well informed persons in their citizenship responsibilities.

Several changes were made in Missouri school bus laws, during the last session of the legislature, and we think that all motorists will wish to become familiar with them.

Amotorist meeting, or over taking, a school bus does not have to stop if he is proceeding in the direction opposite the school bus on a four or more lane highway. The school bus driver can not take on or discharge passengers on a four or more lane highway which would require the passengers to cross more than two lanes of traffic.

Another new provision is that the school bus driver, after loading or unloading school children, should remain stopped if the bus is followed by three or more vehicles and these vehicles should be allowed to pass the bus as prevailing conditions make it safe to do so.

All motorists should be especially alert for school buses in the morning before school and in the afternoon when school is letting out.

Admiral Hyman Rickover, the developer of the atomic submarine and known also as a critic of "softness" in American education has advocated a nation-wide "assessment of performance" by the schools for several years. This would probably be in the form of a comprehensive testing program that would effectively measure how a school, a system, a state or a region was educating its children.

At a recent White House Meeting on Education this, somewhat controversial idea was discussed.

An objection was raised that this might promote unhealthy competition and comparison and that it might also be an opening wedge toward control of the curriculum.

It was also argued that the cost of education and its importance to the nation no longer should allow total neglect of the element of quality control; the shortcomings that are not being corrected because many communities do not know that they exist; and that all Americans have a stake in the performance of every school.

One conference member said, "children in rural areas are in competition with children of suburbia and urban centers. Youth in South Carolina are in competition with youth in Arizona, Idaho and Illinois - whether or not those responsible for schooling in their communities realize this reality."

We see no objection in nation-wide tests to be used as a guide for measuring an individual schools performance and thus determining its strengths or weaknesses. Actually most schools are already involved in standardized testing programs, participated in by thousands of schools, and hundreds of thousands of students, in order to establish "averages" and standards of performance. We use these tests toward measuring our performance with an aim toward discovering weaknesses and correcting them. We believe that all schools could profit from such an assessment and we can see no connection between this and control of the curriculum. People who are familiar with federal support for schools, are aware that there has been, to date, absolutely no attempt to indicate to local communities that they shall teach in their schools. In fact, many schools in the nation are the poorer in quality because of dependence upon nothing but local direction without regard to the needs of the nation as a whole. This might be all right if all students remained in the community in which they were educated, but we know this is not the case and the child who gets an inferior education whether in Mississippi, Missouri or Minnesota can not effectively perform, and thus this failure becomes the responsibility of whatever community in which he may live.

We have applied for approval, and funds, to continue the "Head Start" program which we operated this past summer. This program was for the pre-school children and it was planned to give them training which would better prepare them to get a good start when they entered the first grade. We think it was effective.

If we receive approval to continue Head Start, it will probably being sometime in November and continue for most of the remainder of the regular school year.

Small Party May Block Brandt Path

BONN, Germany (AP) — A small political party may block the way to power for Willy Brandt's Social Democrats even if they emerge the most popular group in Sunday's election in West Germany.

The Free Democratic party chairman, Erich Mende, has pledged to see that the Socialists do not occupy the Palais Schaumburg, Bonn's Rhineside chancellory.

All professional pollsters predict a close outcome in the race between the two top parties, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats and Brandt's Socialists. Thus, the men around Mende are likely to have a say again when it comes to forming a new government.

Mende, 48, a former army officer, has a deeply rooted distrust of everything Socialist. He has publicly ruled out any idea of allying himself with the Socialists in case they need the Free Democratic votes for control of the new Bundestag.

Critics quip that it has "more wings than members," but quite a few feel that the many-faced picture of Mende's group is one of its main assets. It includes former Hitler Youth leaders who pursue a strongly nationalist line. It also has some bitter anti-Nazis imprisoned during the Third Reich. There is no handy label in characterizing the party except perhaps that it stands strictly for free enterprise.

In 1961, for the first time under Mende's leadership, the Free Democrats polled 12.8 per cent of the national vote. Much of their success was ascribed to a campaign pledge to end the regime of Konrad Adenauer. The promise was realized two years later when Erhard took over.

Although experts suspect the party is now past its peak, Mende is confident of polling at least 10 per cent, enough to keep his party's foot in the door.

Much of its hopes are based on his record as vice chancellor and minister for all-German affairs in the incumbent government. He claims credit for improved contacts with East Germany, specifically for obtaining the government's green light in the Berlin pass agreement on visits behind the wall.

In his campaign, Mende has spoken for full diplomatic relations with Germany's Communist neighbors — a proposal that goes even beyond the official Socialist program. When one low-level party expert presented a study envisaging Germany's pullout from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, he was quickly called to order by Mende.

Improvement of educational standards and a demand for increased economy in state spending are favorite subjects with Mende.

Says Mende: "We are the salt in the often dull soup of Bonn democracy."

There was a young girl named Anheuser
Who said that no man could surprise her.
But Old Overholt
And now she is sadder Budweiser

Poker Pals On Hand For First Night

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Subject Was Roses" opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater this week, there was a special corps of enthusiasts: Frank Gilroy's fellow poker players.

All of them are in show business — writers, actors, directors, producers. They played poker every Wednesday night during the five years Gilroy lived here and worked in the movie and television jungle.

During that time the writer was moonlighting on a play script, turning it out in a realtor's office near his home in the Pacific Palisades. When he couldn't find backers foolhardy enough to finance the play, Gilroy's poker pals contributed to the kitty.

"Most of them gave me $1,000 without even reading the play and wrote it off as a loss," said the still astounded playwright.

The poker players had good reason to doubt their investments. "The Subject Was Roses" was Broadway's Cinderella story of the year — and perhaps any year since "Abie's Irish Rose" was an ingenue.

Gilroy's struggle to get his play produced was remarkable enough to warrant a book in itself — which indeed he wrote as "About Those Roses."

Even after the play finally opened on Broadway, it seemed destined for quick death. Only the transfusion of another $10,000 to its $50,000 budget and financial privations of all concerned allowed it to survive through losing weeks.

Survive it did, with glorious results. Last spring the play was sprinkled with the Drama Critics award, the Tony and the Pulitzer Prize, making it the fifth play to win the triple crown.

Gilroy, 38, is a hard worker with an admitted compulsion to write. He knows the folly of trying to do so in a household of growing youngsters. Wherever he writes — and now it's in Goshen, N.Y. — he rents a bare office which he furnishes with little more than chair, typewriter and table.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

If, as written by one of the most eminent, the life of the law has been not in logic but in experience, the punishment now suffered by the petitioner, while inexcusable and shocking to the sensibilities of all civilized persons, is not of such nature as to come presently within the scope of the Eighth Amendment and to justify discharge of the petitioner at this time.

The same rule applies to the infliction of physical pain as a method of punishment. Here again, the courts have held that our constitutional provisions cannot be read so as to incorporate every change in penological theory. A punishment cannot be considered barbarous today if it was not so considered in 1776.

In this connection, it may be noted that flogging was a widely used punishment long after the adoption of the Constitution, and had been held to be constitutional on repeated occasions. Thus, in Commonwealth v. Wyatt, the General Court of Virginia held:

The punishment of offences by stripes is certainly odious, but cannot be said to be unusual. This court, regarding the discretion delegated by the act in question, as being of the same character with the discretion always exercised by Common Law Courts to inflict fine and imprisonment, and subject to be restrained by the same considerations, does not feel itself at liberty, in this case to refuse to obey the legislative will, nor to execute that will by its judgments.

Likewise, we are told:

In Aldridge's Case, supra, 2 va. Case 449, 450, the penalty imposed by the judgment of the trial court on a "free person of color" for the crime of grand larceny was that he be sold as a slave, transported, and banished beyond the United States, and that he be given, in addition, 39 stripes on his base back. This punishment was authorized by the statute, and the judgment was held to be valid. The court said: As to the ninth section of the (Virginia) Bill of Rights, denouncing cruel and unusual punishment, we have no notion that it has any bearing on this case. That provision was never designed to determine ad libitum upon the adequacy of punishment.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

A course in Occupational Analysis for vocational teachers and administrators was organized at Senior High School Monday evening. The class will meet two hours each week for 16 weeks and those successfully completing it will receive two hours graduate college credit. Jim Cornett, of the University of Missouri faculty, will teach the course. Thirty three students from various Southeast Missouri schools are enrolled. Twenty three of this group are Sikeston school faculty members. The purpose of the course is to develop and to analyze courses in occupational education.

Another graduate class for teachers will be organized this evening, (Thursday, September 16) all at the Senior High School. The course, Principles and Procedures of Student Personnel Work, under the sponsorship of Southeast Missouri State College, will meet three hours weekly for 16 weeks for three hours graduate credit. The purpose of this course is to train teachers in student personal planning, accounting, organization and administration. This course can be filled with teachers from our schools but will also be open to teachers from neighboring communities.

The interest in graduate courses indicates, on the part of the faculty members, a desire to improve their skills, competence and professional qualifications in order to give their students better educational opportunities.

In his book, "Human Capital," Doctor Gary Becker estimates that a college education usually pays for itself in about ten years and for every $1,000 spent in college, the average student increases his earning power more than $100 a year. He also says the national economy gains $2,000 a year from the $20,000 invested in the average four years college education.

We are sure that the same thing is equally true of vocational education and that the vocational student is amply compensated for the time and money spent in occupational education and training. We know for sure that those students who successfully complete the courses which we are teaching can and do get well-paid jobs. One student was employed, immediately after finishing a two year high school course in design drafting, at $5400 per year. Other students who have the knowledge and skills required in their vocational choice are successful in finding good jobs. So, it would seem, that education in high school, trade-technical schools or college is a sound investment for the student and the community in terms of better income and to this we can add the values which our society gets from competent and well informed persons in their citizenship responsibilities.

Several changes were made in Missouri school bus laws, during the last session of the legislature, and we think that all motorists will wish to become familiar with them.

Amotorist meeting, or over taking, a school bus does not have to stop if he is proceeding in the direction opposite the school bus on a four or more lane highway. The school bus driver can not take on or discharge passengers on a four or more lane highway which would require the passengers to cross more than two lanes of traffic.

Another new provision is that the school bus driver, after loading or unloading school children, should remain stopped if the bus is followed by three or more vehicles and these vehicles should be allowed to pass the bus as prevailing conditions make it safe to do so.

All motorists should be especially alert for school buses in the morning before school and in the afternoon when school is letting out.

Admiral Hyman Rickover, the developer of the atomic submarine and known also as a critic of "softness" in American education has advocated a nation-wide "assessment of performance" by the schools for several years. This would probably be in the form of a comprehensive testing program that would effectively measure how a school, a system, a state or a region was educating its children.

At a recent White House Meeting on Education this, somewhat controversial idea was discussed.

An objection was raised that this might promote unhealthy competition and comparison and that it might also be an opening wedge toward control of the curriculum.

It was also argued that the cost of education and its importance to the nation no longer should allow total neglect of the element of quality control; the shortcomings that are not being corrected because many communities do not know that they exist; and that all Americans have a stake in the performance of every school.

One conference member said, "children in rural areas are in competition with children of suburbia and urban centers. Youth in South Carolina are in competition with youth in Arizona, Idaho and Illinois - whether or not those responsible for schooling in their communities realize this reality."

We see no objection in nation-wide tests to be used as a guide for measuring an individual schools performance and thus determining its strengths or weaknesses. Actually most schools are already involved in standardized testing programs, participated in by thousands of schools, and hundreds of thousands of students, in order to establish "averages" and standards of performance. We use these tests toward measuring our performance with an aim toward discovering weaknesses and correcting them. We believe that all schools could profit from such an assessment and we can see no connection between this and control of the curriculum. People who are familiar with federal support for schools, are aware that there has been, to date, absolutely no attempt to indicate to local communities that they shall teach in their schools. In fact, many schools in the nation are the poorer in quality because of dependence upon nothing but local direction without regard to the needs of the nation as a whole. This might be all right if all students remained in the community in which they were educated, but we know this is not the case and the child who gets an inferior education whether in Mississippi, Missouri or Minnesota can not effectively perform, and thus this failure becomes the responsibility of whatever community in which he may live.

We have applied for approval, and funds, to continue the "Head Start" program which we operated this past summer. This program was for the pre-school children and it was planned to give them training which would better prepare them to get a good start when they entered the first grade. We think it was effective.

If we receive approval to continue Head Start, it will probably being sometime in November and continue for most of the remainder of the regular school year.

Small Party May Block Brandt Path

BONN, Germany (AP) — A small political party may block the way to power for Willy Brandt's Social Democrats even if they emerge the most popular group in Sunday's election in West Germany.

The Free Democratic party chairman, Erich Mende, has pledged to see that the Socialists do not occupy the Palais Schaumburg, Bonn's Rhineside chancellory.

All professional pollsters predict a close outcome in the race between the two top parties, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats and Brandt's Socialists. Thus, the men around Mende are likely to have a say again when it comes to forming a new government.

Mende, 48, a former army officer, has a deeply rooted distrust of everything Socialist. He has publicly ruled out any idea of allying himself with the Socialists in case they need the Free Democratic votes for control of the new Bundestag.

Critics quip that it has "more wings than members," but quite a few feel that the many-faced picture of Mende's group is one of its main assets. It includes former Hitler Youth leaders who pursue a strongly nationalist line. It also has some bitter anti-Nazis imprisoned during the Third Reich. There is no handy label in characterizing the party except perhaps that it stands strictly for free enterprise.

In 1961, for the first time under Mende's leadership, the Free Democrats polled 12.8 per cent of the national vote. Much of their success was ascribed to a campaign pledge to end the regime of Konrad Adenauer. The promise was realized two years later when Erhard took over.

Although experts suspect the party is now past its peak, Mende is confident of polling at least 10 per cent, enough to keep his party's foot in the door.

Much of its hopes are based on his record as vice chancellor and minister for all-German affairs in the incumbent government. He claims credit for improved contacts with East Germany, specifically for obtaining the government's green light in the Berlin pass agreement on visits behind the wall.

In his campaign, Mende has spoken for full diplomatic relations with Germany's Communist neighbors — a proposal that goes even beyond the official Socialist program. When one low-level party expert presented a study envisaging Germany's pullout from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, he was quickly called to order by Mende.

Improvement of educational standards and a demand for increased economy in state spending are favorite subjects with Mende.

Poker Pals On Hand For First Night

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Subject Was Roses" opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater this week, there was a special corps of enthusiasts: Frank Gilroy's fellow poker players.

All of them are in show business — writers, actors, directors, producers. They played poker every Wednesday night during the five years Gilroy lived here and worked in the movie and television jungle.

During that time the writer was moonlighting on a play script, turning it out in a realtor's office near his home in the Pacific Palisades. When he couldn't find backers foolhardy enough to finance the play, Gilroy's poker pals contributed to the kitty.

"Most of them gave me $1,000 without even reading the play and wrote it off as a loss," said the still astounded playwright.

The poker players had good reason to doubt their investments. "The Subject Was Roses" was Broadway's Cinderella story of the year — and perhaps any year since "Abie's Irish Rose" was an ingenue.

Gilroy's struggle to get his play produced was remarkable enough to warrant a book in itself — which indeed he wrote as "About Those Roses."

Even after the play finally opened on Broadway, it seemed destined for quick death. Only the transfusion of another $10,000 to its $50,000 budget and financial privations of all concerned allowed it to survive through losing weeks.

Survive it did, with glorious results. Last spring the play was sprinkled with the Drama Critics award, the Tony and the Pulitzer Prize, making it the fifth play to win the triple crown.

Gilroy, 38, is a hard worker with an admitted compulsion to write. He knows the folly of trying to do so in a household of growing youngsters. Wherever he writes — and now it's in Goshen, N.Y. — he rents a bare office which he furnishes with little more than chair, typewriter and table.

Fertility & Sterility

HORMONE SUPPLEMENTATION

In an early therapeutic attack on this problem, the serum of pregnant mares was administered inasmuch as it was rich in FSH. This approach failed for reasons later ascribed to species specificity--the human organism could not utilize equine material. Later, human FSH was employed, but it failed, too -- something else was needed.

About six years ago, Dr. Carl Gemzell, of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, devised a successful approach. He combined human FSH with human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), another hormone, and in a number of women who had not been ovulating. Moreover, a number of multiple births appeared, and in a case of miscarriage Dr. Gemzell noted seven well-formed fetuses. The FSH-HCG treatment was the one given the Queens, New York, woman who delivered healthy quadruplets in 1963. Further research on these hormones, as well as on a synthetic ovulation-inducer known as clomiphene citrate, is now being conducted by several American researchers.

TECHNIQUES FROM SURGERY

Surgery, too, has played a considerable role in overcoming female infertility. In one condition the pituitary is functioning normally but ovulation is blocked by small cysts on an ovary. In some cases of this kind, success has been achieved through wedge-resection -- a pie-shaped bit of ovarian tissue is removed. Often the slightly smaller ovary will then function normally.

A large amount of work has also been done to correct malfunctions of the Fallopian tubes which block pregnancy. In some cases the tubes are insufflated with a gas -- a diagnostic technique designed to reveal a blockage -- and the "blowing" itself serves to clear the ducts. Where tubes have been blocked by lesions or abnormality in structure, it has sometimes been possible to reconstruct them -- in some cases to replace tissue with plastic inserts.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Awarding School Dropouts

WHEN a young man drops out of school and joins the Job Corps, he receives room, board, medical care, a clothing allowance of $75.00, and monthly pay of $80.00. After ten months, his pay rises to $105.00 provided he sends home $25.00 a month.

Dr. Kershner

On the other hand a high school graduate who enters military service starts at $78.00 a month, and after two years he may draw $99.37 per month.

It appears that the Job Corps is offering a substantial premium to youths who drop out while those who complete their courses, even with honors, are penalized.

If Job Corpsmen acquire enough skills to be eligible to join the armed services, they would be obliged to take a cut in pay.

Another unfair practice is the payment of $1.25 per hour to enrollees in the Neighborhood Anti-poverty Youth Corps. These persons without skill, and often without the ability to read or write, are paid more than many highly skilled workers, such as students working in college libraries and bookstores who receive oft times not more than $.75 per hour. The premium seems to be on the unfit and the ill prepared. We see no reason why the public should be taxed to pay higher wages to unprepared, unskilled school dropouts than is paid to competent well-prepared workers in some areas.

According to Dan Smoot's Report June 7, 1965, crime grows parallel to the growth of the socialistic welfare state. From 1933 to 1963, population in the United States increased 50% but crime 1231%. Government spending increased 1215%.

In 1933, at the bottom of the great depression when more than 12 million adults were unemployed, arrests in the United States totaled 320,162. In 1963, during the crest of prosperity, arrests totaled 4,259,463.

In 1933, Federal, State, and local spending totaled about $12.8 million. In 1963, it had grown to $168.4 billion.

Stoddard County Fair Opens Monday

DEXTER -- Stoddard County's annual county fair will open Monday for a six-day run.

The event will be held at the city park property, adjacent to the Dexter airport where the fall festival has been held for many years.

It will feature livestock exhibits, agricultural displays, 4-H exhibits, home craft displays, and many others. In addition, there will be the usual carnival, designed to provide fun for the entire family.

The fair catalog has now been published and several thousand copies are being mailed this week throughout the county.

The annual fair parade is scheduled for next Thursday in downtown Dexter, starting at 6 p.m. and featuring a number of bands, floats and other exhibits.

Selection of "Miss Stoddard County" will take place immediately after the parade and she will be crowned at the corner of Stoddard and Locust streets in downtown Dexter.

Officers of this year's fair, who are busy now planning the annual fall event, include John Bryant, chairman; Kenneth Allen, vice-chairman; and W. L. Arnold, secretary. Members of the board of directors include Joe Weber, John Bryant, Percy Clippard, Lehman Godwin, Gene Hendricks, Mrs. Henry Bennett, Kenneth Allen, Dr. E. G. Bailey, Mrs. William Cryts, Jr., Audrey Fralick, Jimmy Russell, Mrs. Denton Musgrave, Geneva Massey, Jewell Grady and W. L. Arnold.

Monday -- 7 p.m. grand opening; 9 p.m. FFA pig scramble.

Tuesday -- 11 a.m. Home economics and 4-H exhibits accepted; midway in full swing.

Wednesday -- 8:30 a.m. field crops accepted; 11 a.m. prepared foods, fresh flowers accepted; 7 p.m. Merriam midway shows.

Thursday: -- 10 a.m. livestock entries accepted; 2 p.m. special kids' matinee; 6 p.m. parade in downtown Dexter followed by selection of "Miss Stoddard County."

Friday -- 7 p.m. judging of swine; 8:30 judging of beef cattle; 9 p.m. 4-H pig scramble.

Saturday: -- All exhibits open to public -- in afternoon various exhibits to be checked out; 9 p.m. checking out of livestock.

HORMONE SUPPLEMENTATION

In an early therapeutic attack on this problem, the serum of pregnant mares was administered inasmuch as it was rich in FSH. This approach failed for reasons later ascribed to species specificity--the human organism could not utilize equine material. Later, human FSH was employed, but it failed, too -- something else was needed.

About six years ago, Dr. Carl Gemzell, of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, devised a successful approach. He combined human FSH with human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), another hormone, and in a number of women who had not been ovulating.

Moreover, a number of multiple births appeared, and in a case of miscarriage Dr. Gemzell noted seven well-formed fetuses. The FSH-HCG treatment was the one given the Queens, New York, woman who delivered healthy quadruplets in 1963. Further research on these hormones, as well as on a synthetic ovulation-inducer known as clomiphene citrate, is now being conducted by several American researchers.

TECHNIQUES FROM SURGERY

Surgery, too, has played a considerable role in overcoming female infertility. In one condition the pituitary is functioning normally but ovulation is blocked by small cysts on an ovary. In some cases of this kind, success has been achieved through wedge-resection -- a pie-shaped bit of ovarian tissue is removed. Often the slightly smaller ovary will then function normally.

A large amount of work has also been done to correct malfunctions of the Fallopian tubes which block pregnancy. In some cases the tubes are insufflated with a gas -- a diagnostic technique designed to reveal a blockage -- and the "blowing" itself serves to clear the ducts. Where tubes have been blocked by lesions or abnormality in structure, it has sometimes been possible to reconstruct them -- in some cases to replace tissue with plastic inserts.

Awarding School Dropouts

WHEN a young man drops out of school and joins the Job Corps, he receives room, board, medical care, a clothing allowance of $75.00, and monthly pay of $80.00. After ten months, his pay rises to $105.00 provided he sends home $25.00 a month.

Dr. Kershner

On the other hand a high school graduate who enters military service starts at $78.00 a month, and after two years he may draw $99.37 per month.

It appears that the Job Corps is offering a substantial premium to youths who drop out while those who complete their courses, even with honors, are penalized.

If Job Corpsmen acquire enough skills to be eligible to join the armed services, they would be obliged to take a cut in pay.

Another unfair practice is the payment of $1.25 per hour to enrollees in the Neighborhood Anti-poverty Youth Corps. These persons without skill, and often without the ability to read or write, are paid more than many highly skilled workers, such as students working in college libraries and bookstores who receive oft times not more than $.75 per hour. The premium seems to be on the unfit and the ill prepared. We see no reason why the public should be taxed to pay higher wages to unprepared, unskilled school dropouts than is paid to competent well-prepared workers in some areas.

According to Dan Smoot's Report June 7, 1965, crime grows parallel to the growth of the socialistic welfare state. From 1933 to 1963, population in the United States increased 50% but crime 1231%. Government spending increased 1215%.

In 1933, at the bottom of the great depression when more than 12 million adults were unemployed, arrests in the United States totaled 320,162. In 1963, during the crest of prosperity, arrests totaled 4,259,463.

In 1933, Federal, State, and local spending totaled about $12.8 million. In 1963, it had grown to $168.4 billion.

ting to a barber, but we're not trying to ram it down their throats," said principal Herbert H. Bishop, principal of Manhattan High School in Kansas.

A less casual attitude is taken by the private schools. "I say to him, 'I think you need a haircut.' He says, 'yes, sir,' and that's it," said Carl W. Andrews Jr. of Collegiate School in New York.

The principal of a Little Rock, Ark., high school grabbed the problem by the forelock. Boys were told to abandon their Beatle cuts or show up for classes with hair ribbons. They got their hair cut.

After school officials in Fairfax County, Va., ruled that long hair was out, 20 students at Thomas Jefferson High School got haircuts before classes the next day.

Barbers at a shop near the school reported some of the boys cried when their hair was cut off.

But a dozen students picketed the school. One sign read, "Do you have to be bald for an education?" Said another: "At $1.75 who can afford haircuts?"

Many of the youngsters come from the International Rescue Center in New York. Others are sent by local relief organizations.

While there, the children swim, study, play games much like children at any summer camp.

In 1949, a Wellesley College girl named Natalie Peterson, spending a year studying at Zurich University in Switzerland, was dismayed by the suspicion and hatred most of Europe felt toward the German people after World War II.

Three years later, with money provided by her family and friends, she established in Holland the first international camp.

She later married a Swiss named Armin Leuthi and brought her idea of international camps to the United States in 1959.

In 1960 the Luethis purchased an old farm homestead and converted it into a residence for up to 40 children and counselors during summer months.

TV Tempo Quickens With Action Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of rip-roaring action shows, two comedies that promise to provide a occasional chuckle, and a science-fiction hour that may delight the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's "The Big Valley" and CBS' "I Spy," and you could hardly ask for greater diversity.

"The Big Valley" is a Western, family style like "Bonanza," but in its first outing suggested that its story lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkleys of old California consist of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons who don't seem to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem.

"I Spy" is one of those currently popular secret agent things, set in modern Hong Kong. Costars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby—TV's first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in a series.

The first show was a fast-moving, slick production about a Negro athlete who had defected to Peking. Our heroes' job was to rescue him. This involved some fancy gun play, vicious fights and a particularly fascinating chase.

On the comedy front was CBS' "Green Acres" which takes a terribly smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse that looks like the shack abandoned by the "Beverly Hillbillies."

Eva Gabor — in lovely clothes — and Eddie Albert play the city slicker couple. They had some pretty amusing lines in the opening show which was primarily occupied with getting them out of a Park Avenue apartment furnished in appallingly bad taste and down on the farm.

"Gidget" on ABC will undoubtedly be enjoyed by the people who made "Gidget" movies box office successes -- teen-agers and parents who want to understand teen-agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

"Lost in Space" on CBS is a companion piece to ABC's "Voyage to The Bottom of The Sea," and the first episode was dedicated to shipping a family in the year 1997 to a planet five and one-half years of spaceship travel away.

The special effects of the show were most interesting — tubes in which to freeze passengers for the trip, flashing lights and a spaceship that looks like a flying saucer.

The plot includes an evil agent of a foreign power who wants to wreck the voyage, but the series contains something really new in villains —a robot computer that has been programmed to destroy the spacecraft.

Graham Urges Session Without Any Strings

JEFFERSON CITY AP - Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, told 85 House Democrats behind locked doors Wednesday they should urge Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to call a special session of the legislature on reapportionment "with no strings attached."

Most of the majority party members came from outstate areas but there were a few from the metropolitan sections, too. House Democrats now number 122.

The governor said he got unanimous approval Saturday from St. Louis area Democrats who met with him on his continuing insistence that a bipartisan commission reapportion the House.

At one point in the closed door session in the House chamber today, Graham was heard to say, "I have no quarrel with the governor but this is a fundamental principle" - that the House redistrict itself."

He has proposed two special sessions, both of which would give the House control of the appointment of any commission to redistrict the House under the federal courts' one man-one vote decisions.

The governor wants the state committees of the two parties to submit panels of 10 each for the commission. Then the governor would select five from each panel for the working group. That's the system already used to redistrict the state Senate. That commission's final plan was approved Saturday and was to be formally presented to the secretary of state today.

The speaker pro tem, Rep. M. E. Baurer, D-Jackson County, said most metropolitan area legislators favored the governor's plan.

There were others present today who have opposed Speaker Graham, including Rep. Tom Baker, D-Stoddard County.

He told the delegation the voters of the state had repudiated the legislature last Aug. 17 in soundly defeating the House plan for reapportiinment. He proposed going along with the governor's proposal for a commission to set up 154 instead of a larger number of districts.

The Democratic caucus chairman of the House, Rep. Harry Raiffie, D-St. Louis, was not present. He has called a caucus here for Sunday. He said he guessed Graham could call a meeting but not a caucus. It was expected Raiffie's caucus would draw some of the members who attended today's session that reporters have dubbed "Graham's gathering."

But Graham won't be there. He planned to leave later Wednesday for a vacation in Europe.

Meanwhile, Rep. Luther Arnold, R-Stone County, said as GOP caucus chairman he was calling a caucus of the 40 Republican House minority for Monday.

If the governor and the legislature can't get together on how to solve the reapportionment problem, the federal court can either do the redistricting job itself or let candidates for the Missouri House run at large next year.

Hunt Bodies In Flood Area

NEW ORLEANS, La (AP) — Authorities continued a house-to-house search today for bodies in eastern New Orleans as flood waters from Hurricane Betsy — which unleashed its fury a week ago — slowly receded.

A similar operation was under way in neighboring St. Bernard Paris, where 3 to 4 feet of water remained in some low-lying sections.

Police sealed off a 300-square block area after Dr. Rodney Jung, city health officer, said it was necessary because "conditions have deteriorated to an alarming degree."

Communications with the devastated regions of lower Plaquemines Parish, 60 miles down the Mississippi River from New Orleans, remained out and there was no late word on conditions.

The list of known and presumed dead climbed to 68 in Louisiana with another 12 victims reported from Florida, Mississippi and Arkansas.

ting to a barber, but we're not trying to ram it down their throats," said principal Herbert H. Bishop, principal of Manhattan High School in Kansas.

A less casual attitude is taken by the private schools. "I say to him, 'I think you need a haircut.' He says, 'yes, sir,' and that's it," said Carl W. Andrews Jr. of Collegiate School in New York.

The principal of a Little Rock, Ark., high school grabbed the problem by the forelock. Boys were told to abandon their Beatle cuts or show up for classes with hair ribbons. They got their hair cut.

After school officials in Fairfax County, Va., ruled that long hair was out, 20 students at Thomas Jefferson High School got haircuts before classes the next day.

Barbers at a shop near the school reported some of the boys cried when their hair was cut off.

But a dozen students picketed the school. One sign read, "Do you have to be bald for an education?" Said another: "At $1.75 who can afford haircuts?"

camp. "This year, for example, we had 16."

The nonprofit camp is privately financed through tuitions, donations and fund raising project, but does not cater solely to a paying clientele.

Many of the youngsters come from the International Rescue Center in New York. Others are sent by local relief organizations.

While there, the children swim, study, play games much like children at any summer camp.

In 1949, a Wellesley College girl named Natalie Peterson, spending a year studying at Zurich University in Switzerland, was dismayed by the suspicion and hatred most of Europe felt toward the German people after World War II.

Three years later, with money provided by her family and friends, she established in Holland the first international camp.

She later married a Swiss named Armin Leuthi and brought her idea of international camps to the United States in 1959.

In 1960 the Luethis purchased an old farm homestead and converted it into a residence for up to 40 children and counselors during summer months.

TV Tempo Quickens With Action Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of rip-roaring action shows, two comedies that promise to provide a occasional chuckle, and a science-fiction hour that may delight the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's "The Big Valley" and CBS' "I Spy," and you could hardly ask for greater diversity.

"The Big Valley" is a Western, family style like "Bonanza," but in its first outing suggested that its story lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkleys of old California consist of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons who don't seem to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem.

"I Spy" is one of those currently popular secret agent things, set in modern Hong Kong. Costars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby—TV's first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in a series.

The first show was a fast-moving, slick production about a Negro athlete who had defected to Peking. Our heroes' job was to rescue him. This involved some fancy gun play, vicious fights and a particularly fascinating chase.

On the comedy front was CBS' "Green Acres" which takes a terribly smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse that looks like the shack abandoned by the "Beverly Hillbillies."

Eva Gabor — in lovely clothes — and Eddie Albert play the city slicker couple. They had some pretty amusing lines in the opening show which was primarily occupied with getting them out of a Park Avenue apartment furnished in appallingly bad taste and down on the farm.

"Gidget" on ABC will undoubtedly be enjoyed by the people who made "Gidget" movies box office successes -- teen-agers and parents who want to understand teen-agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

"Lost in Space" on CBS is a companion piece to ABC's "Voyage to The Bottom of The Sea," and the first episode was dedicated to shipping a family in the year 1997 to a planet five and one-half years of spaceship travel away.

The special effects of the show were most interesting — tubes in which to freeze passengers for the trip, flashing lights and a spaceship that looks like a flying saucer.

The plot includes an evil agent of a foreign power who wants to wreck the voyage, but the series contains something really new in villains — a robot computer that has been programmed to destroy the spacecraft.

Graham Urges Session Without Any Strings

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, told 85 House Democrats behind locked doors Wednesday they should urge Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to call a special session of the legislature on reapportionment "with no strings attached."

Most of the majority party members came from outstate areas but there were a few from the metropolitan sections, too. House Democrats now number 122.

The governor said he got unanimous approval Saturday from St. Louis area Democrats who met with him on his continuing insistence that a bipartisan commission reapportion the House.

At one point in the closed door session in the House chamber today, Graham was heard to say, "I have no quarrel with the governor but this is a fundamental principle" - that the House redistrict itself."

He has proposed two special sessions, both of which would give the House control of the appointment of any commission to redistrict the House under the federal courts' one man-one vote decisions.

The governor wants the state committees of the two parties to submit panels of 10 each for the commission. Then the governor would select five from each panel for the working group. That's the system already used to redistrict the state Senate. That commission's final plan was approved Saturday and was to be formally presented to the secretary of state today.

The speaker pro tem, Rep. M. E. Baurer, D-Jackson County, said most metropolitan area legislators favored the governor's plan.

There were others present today who have opposed Speaker Graham, including Rep. Tom Baker, D-Stoddard County.

He told the delegation the voters of the state had repudiated the legislature last Aug. 17 in soundly defeating the House plan for reapportilnment. He proposed going along with the governor's proposal for a commission to set up 154 instead of a larger number of districts.

The Democratic caucus chairman of the House, Rep. Harry Raiffie, D-St. Louis, was not present. He has called a caucus here for Sunday. He said he guessed Graham could call a meeting but not a caucus. It was expected Raiffie's caucus would draw some of the members who attended today's session that reporters have dubbed "Graham's gathering."

But Graham won't be there. He planned to leave later Wednesday for a vacation in Europe.

Meanwhile, Rep. Luther Arnold, R-Stone County, said as GOP caucus chairman he was calling a caucus of the 40 Republican House minority for Monday.

If the governor and the legislature can't get together on how to solve the reapportionment problem, the federal court can either do the redistricting job itself or let candidates for the Missouri House run at large next year.

Hunt Bodies In Flood Area

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Authorities continued a house-to-house search today for bodies in eastern New Orleans as flood waters from Hurricane Betsy — which unleashed its fury a week ago — slowly receded.

A similar operation was under way in neighboring St. Bernard Paris, where 3 to 4 feet of water remained in some low-lying sections.

Police sealed off a 300-square block area after Dr. Rodney Jung, city health officer, said it was necessary because "conditions have deteriorated to an alarming degree."

Communications with the devastated regions of lower Plaquemines Parish, 60 miles down the Mississippi River from New Orleans, remained out and there was no late word on conditions.

The list of known and presumed dead climbed to 68 in Louisiana with another 12 victims reported from Florida, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Mrs. Geo. Fenimore

News out here we are watching arstinauts--Gordon Cooper and Cornrad. Go up into outer-space they had gone up 1,1000, 000 miles. Its over 2,000,000 miles up. They hurtled up and logged more hours than any other man said they were tired dirty and hungry. 2 prove long man can live in outerspace, they had an old Juke box they played and sang "Where We Go Sailing Home" They will come home Sun. on account of Betsey Hurrican. Se St. Louis, Mo., had a big storm Fri nite I see Ozark air lines are guided through Memphis. Bob Mat-thews guided it thro our Airport Sikeston. Subject of church school lesson Sun was "The Pressure from Without" by Howard Grimes. The Gemini is landing. They had to come down on account of Hurrican Betsy but the completed their 8 day mission 2 see if man can live in outerspace. It seems they can they did not reach the moon no man ever has why not send a woman she is easy 2 fly off at a moments notice. One can see thro big ob-servetoris in Chicago Illnois people walking round there lots. Irrigation gives plenty water in case you want 2 take a bath be sure 2 take your hip boots its wet and sloshy up there now. They say Marrs has habitation. That where Dutch Shankle he makes Electrous he wanted 2 take me into outerspace but he cant go yet.

Awhile he was fixing room on his 5 room shack in Los Angeles and fell off broke his hip and ankle, believe George said he was able 2 navigate in so I guess he wont be going 2 Marrs or moon either I sent him a house coat he was such a poor invalid.

Russians is sending Guns 2 Viet-Nam so is Peking China. Mied am, Ky. check was over the other day negotiating peace. President says there is no peace maybe in 2000 than most of us will be dead want know it anyway.

John Gaty led church school. We sang a few songs then went 2 our rooms for our lesson. Bertha Collier leader read a song. It was "O Young & Fearless Prophets". Subject of lesson was "Pressure from Without" by Howard Grimes. Put on the whole armour of God you may be able 2 stand against the wiles and the Devil. W e are not standing against flesh and blood against prin-cipalities against principal host and wittnesses So Gird yourself & held the fallen man help those who can't help themselves. Others in the class besides Bertha Collier, leader, were Elva Gaty, Tressie Mankin, Maude Rushing, Helen Bagby and Florence Fenimore.

Mine Blast Causes Marine To Lose Legs

POPLAR BLUFF -- A 17-year-old Poplar Bluff youth serving with the Marine Corps in Viet Nam has suffered the loss of both lower legs after he was wounded while on patrol.

Pfc. Harold Gene Burns, son of Mrs. Arzula Burns, manager of the Model Hotel, was struck by fragments from a land mine type device Aug. 31 while on duty with the 3rd Marine Division. He was evacuated to the U. S. Army Hospital at Camp Kue on Okinawa and later transferred to the U. S. Naval Base Hospital in Oakland, Calif., where Navy surgeons decided to amputate both legs just below the knees.

Mrs. Burns was notified of the incident Sept. 1 by telegram, only a day after it happened.

Navy doctors say Burns' condition now is satisfactory and his outlook for recovery is good.

He was on patrol with five other Marines when one of the men stepped on the explosive device. The man was killed and the other Leathernecks, including Burns, were hurt severely.

Pfc. Burns attended the Poplar Bluff Senior High School and enlisted in the Marine Corps on Dec. 7, 1964. His mother said he will be discharged after recovering from the combat wounds. He is expected to be in the hospital for six to eight months.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A close friend of mine who is 18 years old insists she is madly in love with a boy 19. The boy has been in the hospital for six months with rheumatic fever. He also has migraine headaches. Ever since I've known him (10 years) he has had some physical complaint which kept him out of school, away from work, or apart from the crowd.

Since the boy has come home from the hospital Christine is at his side constantly. She has dedicated herself to making his life easy and pleasant.

I realize the boy is sick, but since Christine is smothering him with attention and service he is making no effort to get well. Please tell me what kind of a life this girl will have if they marry. HATE TO SEE IT HAPPEN

Dear Hate to See It: Some women pick invalids because they get a feeling of personal worth out of sacrificing themselves. Noble? Well-- to a point, but it can mask a martyr complex which is pretty sick stuff.

If Christine marries the boy she had better plan on being a lifetime nurse and probably the breadwinner as well.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Lander's booklet, "Teen-age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mr. and Mrs. Garry Hillis of Pilot Grove visited Sunday and Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tharp, and Rita, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Hewitt, and other relatives here in Sikeston.

Rev. Glen Bohanan and family of Morehouse and Mrs. Ora Evans were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Summers and Jeanie.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Lawson of Sikeston were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lawson and Jerlyn.

TELL-TALE LEGS—According to a psychologist who claims to have given the matter considerable study, there's much more to even a well-turned leg than meets the eye. K. P. Saxena of Bombay, India, claims that at least for the female of the species, there is a direct connection between certain basic personality traits and the way legs are crossed or held. Pictured above are some of these "character-revealing aspects of the female leg" which India's scientific leg-watcher says his research has revealed.

Mine Blast Causes Marine To Lose Legs

POPLAR BLUFF -- A 17-year-old Poplar Bluff youth serving with the Marine Corps in Viet Nam has suffered the loss of both lower legs after he was wounded while on patrol.

Pfc. Harold Gene Burns, son of Mrs. Arzula Burns, manager of the Model Hotel, was struck by fragments from a land mine type device Aug. 31 while on duty with the 3rd Marine Division. He was evacuated to the U. S. Army Hospital at Camp Kue on Okinawa and later transferred to the U. S. Naval Base Hospital in Oakland, Calif., where Navy surgeons decided to amputate both legs just below the knees.

Mrs. Burns was notified of the incident Sept. 1 by telegram, only a day after it happened.

Navy doctors say Burns' condition now is satisfactory and his outlook for recovery is good.

He was on patrol with five other Marines when one of the men stepped on the explosive device. The man was killed and the other Leathernecks, including Burns, were hurt severely.

Pfc. Burns attended the Poplar Bluff Senior High School and enlisted in the Marine Corps on Dec. 7, 1964. His mother said he will be discharged after recovering from the combat wounds. He is expected to be in the hospital for six to eight months.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A close friend of mine who is 18 years old insists she is madly in love with a boy 19. The boy has been in the hospital for six months with rheumatic fever. He also has migraine headaches. Ever since I've known him (10 years) he has had some physical complaint which kept him out of school, away from work, or apart from the crowd.

Since the boy has come home from the hospital Christine is at his side constantly. She has dedicated herself to making his life easy and pleasant.

I realize the boy is sick, but since Christine is smothering him with attention and service he is making no effort to get well. Please tell me what kind of a life this girl will have if they marry. HATE TO SEE IT HAPPEN

Dear Hate to See It: Some women pick invalids because they get a feeling of personal worth out of sacrificing themselves. Noble? Well-- to a point, but it can mask a martyr complex which is pretty sick stuff.

If Christine marries the boy she had better plan on being a lifetime nurse and probably the breadwinner as well.

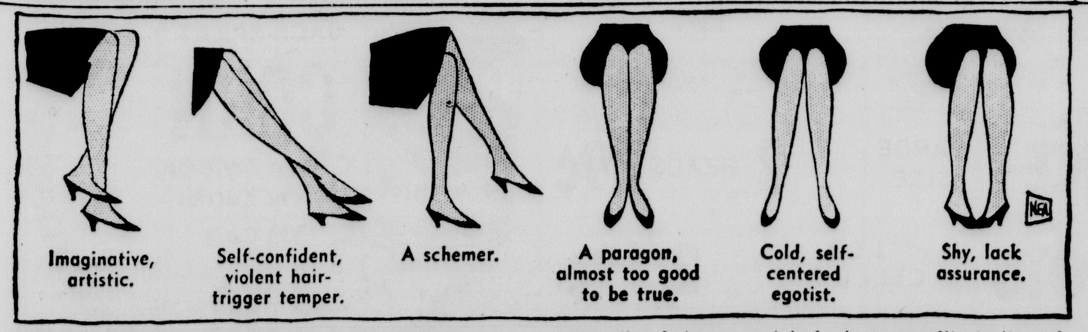
What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Lander's booklet, "Teen-age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mr. and Mrs. Garry Hillis of Pilot Grove visited Sunday and Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tharp, and Rita, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Hewitt, and other relatives here in Sikeston.

Rev. Glen Bohanan and family of Morehouse and Mrs. Ora Evans were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Summers and Jeanie.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Lawson of Sikeston were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lawson and Jerlyn.



TELL-TALE LEGS—According to a psychologist who claims to have given the matter considerable study, there's much more to even a well-turned leg than meets the eye. K. P. Saxena of Bombay, India, claims that at least for the female of the species, there is a direct connection between certain basic personality traits and the way legs are crossed or held. Pictured above are some of these "character-revealing aspects of the female leg" which India's scientific leg-watcher says his research has revealed.

Provisions Of Senate Approved Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Provisions of the Senate - passed omnibus farm bill, subject to change in a Senate-House conference next week, include:

Cotton

The grower would receive direct payments taking his return up to 29 cents and perhaps as high as 35 or 36 cents if he cuts back as much as one-third of his production.

American textile firms and exporters could buy at the 21 cent price.

Under the program now in effect, farmers receive a support level of about 29 cents a pound. Subsidies are paid both to domestic mills and exporters so they can obtain the fiber close to the world price.

Wheat

Growers would receive a combination of support loans and payments designed to bring them an overall return of $1.90 a bushel compared with $1.81 under the House bill and $1.69 at present.

On the portion of his crop consumed domestically, the farmer would receive a certificate worth about $1.25 in addition to the $1.25 support level so that his return would be $2.50 a bushel.

But only 75 cents of the $1.25 certificate would be paid by processors and passed along to consumers. The other 50 cents would come from the federal treasury.

On the portion of the crop sent abroad, a variable export certificate would be issued with its value depending on fluctuations in the world price.

Feed Grains

The present voluntary program with supports through loans and payments at 65 to 90 per cent of parity is continued but the payment plan is revised in an effort to get more growers to participate.

Under the provision, direct payments to participants could be higher but the general support level for the market could be lower. At present about 47 per cent of farms on which feed grains are grown are in the program.

An alternative program which could be used at the secretary of agriculture's discretion is included.

Under it, there would be no direct payments, loan price support would range from 60 to 90 per cent of parity, and there would be a higher level of land diversion payments.

Dairy

Dairymen in a mile market-ing area would be allowed to vote for a plan abolishing the single price system now in effect under all marketing orders. A two-thirds vote would be needed to install the new program.

The blend price takes into account the proportion of production going into fluid use, which brings a high price, and the proportion used by manufacturers, which brings a lower price.

Under the new plan, the producer would get an allotment for his share of the fluid consumption and receive the high price for this. But he would get the lower price on the part of his milk used in manufacturing.

Cropland Adjustment

The Agriculture Department would be given authority to enter into five to 10-year contracts to take land out of production in a program similar to the old soil bank plan..

New contracts signed in any one year could not provide for annual payments in excess of $225 million.

Not more than 50 per cent of a farmer's allotment on one crop could be required to be put in the new program as a condition of participation.

Acreage diverted from any commodity under cropland adjustment would count toward price support diversion requirements for that commodity.

An additional wildlife service payment could be made on retired land if the owner agreed to manage it for wildlife production in cooperation with the state fish and game agency and to permit access to the land by the public for hunting, trapping, fishing, hiking and other recreation.

The goal is to retire 40 million acres from production by 1969.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor Blanton
Mentally Retarded!

How many of us stop to think or realize what these two words really mean. It means more than reading books or listening to speeches about it. It means living with it and turning one's eyes to the retarded person himself and a true understanding of his problem and accepting them.

We are not to be ashamed of these children, they're slow, their attentions wavers easily and they have very little reasoning power or capacity for sustained work. Most retarded children are eager for love and affection.

No, we as a parent need never be ashamed or embarrassed of the retarded child, over a hundred thousand parents each year have this problem.

What can we say we are doing for these children who are slow and not as fortunate as others? It is not our power or ability to change these children nor can any Dr., teacher, parent or friend have a cure. This is brain damage and we do know and realize that brain damage cannot be cured.

We learn from day to day that more help is being done for these children. More centers are being built. Let us all strive to reach this goal, be grateful not only for the sake of the child but also the sake of civilization. Let us be considerate to these children who are the weakest members of our times. There is hope for the Mentally Retarded. Often these children are deprived of schooling, vocational training and of a formal social atmosphere. We in our Community can say Thanks to the Special Education Class, the Class of the Retarded how proud we will be to have a center also.

Every opportunity to inform others about Mental retardation is a step in the right direction. Let us all be grateful, when all is finished we can say we're proud to have helped someone who will never be able to help themselves.

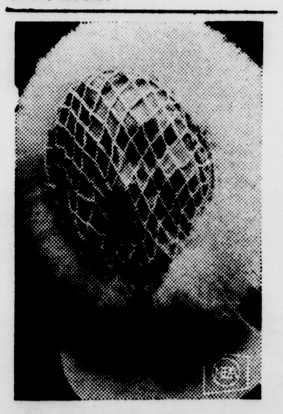
Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Vandermark spent the weekend with his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parrish of St. Louis.



INEVITABLE—With women's fashions covering a little here and uncovering a bit there, it was inevitable that some designer would get around to hiding milady's head. London milliner Edward Mann took the big step with this helmet. He circles the face with a band of swansdown and covers it with crocheted mesh. The creation is said to be inspired by the space age.
